City May Cut Water Rates; Check Ordered

Sewer Bond Vote Held Over Until Next Month

Probability of the establishment of a new and lower minimum charge for Placerville water users was seen in action of the city council Monday night, asking City Clerk Esther Mahler to make a survey of the amounts of water used by various users.

Mayor George E. Faugsted said Tuesday morning that the council has in mind the possibility of lowering the minimum charge, now $1.50 for 1,000 cubic feet per month, to make allowance for a number of users whose consumption of water does not approach the minimum.

The council laid the proposed garbage ordinance over for further study and members indicated that they may pay visits to other communities in the northern section of the state to make inquiry into the experiences those communities may have had in connection with the garbage problem.

Members of the council expressed the view that the garbage ordinance as drawn at present is "at least something to start from" and may be altered before final passage.

The council indicated it contemplates calling a bond election about the middle of May on the sewer bond matter. Members of the council were reluctant to announce definite plans for the election at this time, pointing out that they did not wish in any way to influence the vote on the Placerville grammar school's $40,000 bond issue, now tentatively set for April 30.

It is understood that the sewer bond matter will be presented in such a manner that if the issue is approved, such approval will be in effect on (Continued on page eight)

SCHOOLS WEEK CHIEFS NAMED

B. Larson, Max Davey And J. H. Palmer In Charge

El Dorado County's participation in the annual California Public Schools Week, opening April 26, will be arranged under the supervision of a committee of three, it was announced Tuesday.

B. E. Larson, principal of the high school, John H. Palmer, principal of Placerville grammar school, and Max L. Davey, past master of El Dorado Lodge No. 26, F. & A. M., and its representative on the committee, have been appointed by B. E. Chappell, master of the lodge.

The committee plans a meeting at an early date to launch definite plans for an appropriate local observance of the occasion.

California Public Schools Week was sponsored originally by the Masonic fraternity of this state and has become, through the years, a community event in which all friends of education join.

The California observance was also the fore-runner of the national observance, American Education Week, celebrated in the fall.

Brother Of Local Woman Is Called

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at Sacramento for Sam Calvert, 58, brother of Mrs. Estella Butterfield of Placerville, who died Sunday at Florin.

The services were from the Klumpp chapel and burial was at Odd Fellows Lawn.

Mr. Calvert was a native of Nevada and is survived by a brother, Tom of Florin, and another brother, George of Spokane, in addition to the sister.

THE Book Mark

In the March number of the magazine "Coronet" William McFee writes an article in which he suggests forming an "Old Fogie's library, whose object would be to keep some books alive and bring back to life others that are mouldering in dusty oblivion. We'll take out a membership at once. All of us know about books that once circulated from hand to hand whose service is not yet done, that are yellowing on shelves. Think of the lively discussions there will be about which books shall be kept alive and which shall be permitted a comfortable obscurity.

Eugene Field used to say that if he was ever rich he would found a hospital for homeless books and call it "A Home for Genteel Volumes in Decayed Circumstances." Another book lover, Oliver Wendell Holmes, adopted a number of books each year, not best sellers and standard books but "foundlings and strays" that nobody wanted.

We know of one founding who has been crying persistently for adoption but whom nobody wants, Owen Meredith's "Lucile." In every old book shop we consistently find a copy or two of "Lucile." The other day we saw six in the five cent bin. Tomorrow there will be one less because we are going to adopt a copy and take an afternoon off to read it. Apparently more copies of "Lucile" were printed than of (Continued on Page 5)

FEAR 8 DEAD IN TRANSPORT

Wreckage Of Plane Is Seen On Slope Of Mt. Baldy

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (UP)—Major A. D. Smith, TWA division superintendent, reported by radio from his plane today that he had sighted wreckage of the missing Douglas airliner on a wooded slope of Mount Baldy, near McNary, Arizona.

The plane, missing for three days since it took off from Burbank, California, for New York for consignment to a European airline, apparently had crashed.

Major Smith notified TWA officials that he was returning to Winslow to pick up Major Victor Bertandias, who is flying the Douglas Company's plane. Then they will fly back to the scene of the crash and map a course for the posse.

The TWA official said that he could not make a landing near the scene of the crash.

Major Smith said he could determine no signs of life.

Mount Baldy is about 50 miles from the New Mexico border in rugged country interspersed with jagged mountain peaks and snow filled valleys.

Airport officials here said that Major Smith informed them that it might be many hours before searchers would be able to reach the wreckage to determine definitely whether any of the eight persons aboard had survived.

EAGLES' AERIE WILL INITIATE 50 ON MONDAY

One of the largest classes to be received into Placerville Aerie No. 889, F.O.E., in several years will be initiated on Monday night when 50 receive the initiatory degree.

The work will be put on by the officers and degree team of the Oak Park Aerie, and among distinguished visitors will be State President R. F. Gilbride and Past National Grand President Charles J. Chenu.

There will be a program of entertainment, music and refreshments following the lodge meeting.

Jens C. Petersen, Sacramento architect, who has prepared plans and specifications for the proposed additions to the city grammar school, was a visitor on Tuesday.

Ski Tourney Plans To Be Set Thursday

Election Of Officers Also Scheduled At Meeting

Final details of preparations for the Placerville Ski Club state sanctioned tournament at Sayles Flat on Sunday will be outlined at the meeting of the ski club on Thursday night.

The meeting, last regular session of the club for the year, will be held at Pacific House, and will also be the occasion for the election of officers for the next season.

The club has endeavored in years past to hold some of its meetings at Pacific House and this year, owing to severe weather, a large number of the meetings have been held in Placerville. Thus the year will be closed with the meeting at Pacific House.

Refreshments will close the meeting.

President Adolph Martin reports he spent Sunday in the Sayles Flat district and there is ample snow there and every indication points to a successful meet.

Members of the club will go to the area on Friday and on Saturday, to complete laying out of courses for the slalom and down-hill events.

The state road is cleared to Tamarack Flat, according to Ed Willis, maintenance engineer, and there is ample parking space for hundreds of cars along the highway. It is understood that those who visit the area Sunday will be expected to drive to Tamarack Flat and turn there, parking on the right-hand side of the highway under the supervision of state highway patrol officers.

CARSTEN LEADS BIRD-BUSTERS

Camino Youth Is Tops In Sunday Card At Sacramento

Ernest Carsten, Jr., showed his heels to Class A shooters at the April shoot of the Sacramento Trapshooting Club, on Sunday, at Del Paso Park, Sacramento.

Ernie missed the first one and then scattered 99 birds in a row to take the high score of the day.

On the second hundred, Carsten banged out 90 to tie with Barney Oatfield, the veteran San Francisco marksman, for the high over all cash purse of $15.

And, as though it was Ernie's day "to howl," he led the parade in the doubles event with a record of 44.

E. Carsten, Sr., took 97 out of 100 at 16 yards and Les Nielsen scored 84 in the handicap event.

Walter I. Bidstrup was in town Tuesday from near El Dorado.

Ernest Scheiber was up from El Dorado Tuesday morning.

Norman Celio was among El Dorado people in town on Tuesday.

Jane Barton, homemaker editor of Pacific Rural Press, who will be in charge of the three-day Homecraft Institute, opening Wednesday at 2 o'clock at the Shakespeare Clubhouse, under the joint sponsorship of The Republican and Pacific Rural Press.

HOME PLANNING, FURNITURE ARRANGEMENT, PARTIES, TOPIC

The three-day program of the Homecraft Institute, opening Wednesday at 2 o'clock at the Shakespeare Clubhouse, and to which all county homemakers are invited, will include a wide variety of homemaking secrets in addition to the recipes to be demonstrated by Jane Barton.

Wednesday

First day of the institute will lead the homemakers down "The Queen's Highway to California Foods" and recipes will include those for pioneer baked beans, golden apples, lemon pie, honey meringue, bran pastry, frivolettes, medium white sauce, Mexican salad and green glow salad.

Jane Barton will tell about planning meals and housework in the most efficient way, for the housewife who takes part in club work and other community activities and must plan to spend some time away from home. A demonstration of furniture arrangement and of home insulation is also included in this day.

DEALER OFFERS FREE RIDE TO DAILY MEETING

If you wish free transportation to the Homecraft Institute any, or each day, April 7, 8, 9, telephone 333, the Wilson Ford agency.

A new Ford V-8, with a competent driver, will pick you up any place within the city limit of Placerville and take you to the Shakespeare Clubhouse and call for you again and return you to your home. There is no obligation. All that is necessary is to phone for an appointment a short time in advance.

Dr. Rantz Is Named Farm Group Chairman

Dr. W. A. Rantz of Placerville, has been named chairman of the agricultural committee of the Sacramento Region Chamber of Commerce, it was learned on Tuesday.

The appointment to a committee chairmanship also carries with it, automatically, membership in the executive committee.

Dr. Rantz has prospects of being mighty busy with the agricultural committee, in view of the apparent efforts by agitators to stir up discontent among the state's farming laborers.

Thursday

Savory sweet potatoes, cottage cheese, California orange cake, orange 7-minute loaf of bread, prunes in fruit juice, prairie schooner cookies, enchilada pie and grapefruit frappe are the recipes which stand as milestones for the day along the "Queen's Highway to California Foods."

Housewives who would be economical—and nearly all of them would—will be interested in Jane Barton's demonstration of using left-overs to make tasteful and interesting meals. A flower arrangement demonstration will feature the second day of the institute.

Friday

On the "menu" for Friday are chocolate thins, California Chiles Rellenos, California orange cake, orange 7-minute frosting, chicken "wayfarer" and cucumber cocktail.

Friday will be "party day" and Jane Barton will demonstrate a wealth of new ideas in party foods, party decorations and new and interesting games for afternoon social occasions.

LIONS CHOOSE SCHOLARSHIP AWARD BOARD

A committee of three members to recommend the names of two applicants for scholarships to Placerville Lions, was named at the club meeting Tuesday noon.

There are five applicants for the scholarships, all pupils of the county high school. The Lions are giving one scholarship and this is being matched by the University of California Alumni Association with the sole restriction that both scholarships must be used on some University of California campus.

Named on the committee for the Lions are Lloyd A. Raffetto, Dr. Lester B. Rantz and Rev. Harold Morehouse. The club heard a report from L. J. Anderson on the progress of the junior community hall project. Anderson said the foundation is poured and the framework for the structure is going up.

New Bay Grand Jury

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Eighteen jurors, including one woman, were selected tentatively today by Superior Judge James G. Conlan to conduct the investigation into charges of police graft and organized vice in San Francisco.

Sessions To Be Daily At Two O'Clock

Three-Day Meeting To Be Most Successful Of Series

The Placerville Republican and Pacific Rural Press present Jane Barton and the fifth annual Homecraft Institute and Home Appliance Exhibit.

The big, three-day festival of home-making begins at 2 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon at the Shakespeare Clubhouse and every effort will be made to conclude the meeting each afternoon by 4:30 o'clock.

Meetings are free, open to all homemakers, and will continue through Thursday and Friday, closing Friday afternoon.

All indications point to Homecraft Institute even more successful than the record-breaking event of last year in which more than 900 El Dorado County housewives met with Jane Barton during the three-day gathering.

California recipes will be a feature of this year's Homecraft Institute which will include, in addition to the demonstration of recipes, other phases of homemaking.

El Dorado County dealers in home appliances refrigerators, radios, washers and ironers have arranged what is said to be the most varied and complete display of appliances ever seen in the county, for the Appliance Exhibit.

Working models are displayed in the foyer, in the main auditorium and on the stage of the clubhouse and housewives are invited to inspect the models on display, both before and following the daily meetings of the Homecraft Institute.

PARKING SPACE FOR INSTITUTE

Bedford, Union Street Areas Near To Clubhouse

Free parking space will be available at the Shakespeare Club for the three days of the Homecraft Institute, all along the east side of Bedford Avenue and along the north side of Union street from its intersection at Bedford Avenue, east. And in addition Sheriff George M. Smith has given consent to visitors to use all available stall directly in the rear of the county courthouse. There will be no time limit for these spaces during the hours the Homecraft Institute is in session each day, which is Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week, from 1:30 to 4:30 p. m.

It is suggested by the management in charge of the Institute, that ladies living within easy walking distance of the clubhouse, leave their cars at home or have someone take them to and from, in order that more parking space may be available to out of town guests.

It is well to keep in mind that there are "No Parking" signs on the west side of Bedford Avenue and city traffic officers warn that it means just that. Otherwise every courtesy will be shown to find a suitable space for your car while you attend this event.

Morning Star Lodge To Mark Anniversary

The one hundred eighteenth anniversary of Odd Fellowship will be observed by Morning Star Lodge No. 20, I.O.O.F., of Placerville, with a dance at the I.O.O.F. hall on Saturday night, April 24. The committee in charge states that Red's Rhythm Rascals will provide the music.

August Ebbert and A. R. Gibbs were courthouse callers Tuesday morning from the Newtown district.

NOEL COWARD AUTHORS BOOK

Autobiography Covers
First 32 Years In Life Span

By JACK GAVER

United Press Drama Editor

NEW YORK (UP)—At the age of 37, Noel Coward, who still must answer to the odious apposition, "wonder boy of the English theater," whether he likes it or not, has written the story of the first 32 years of his life. "Present Indicative" is its title and it is an astonishing revelation even to those familiar enough with his career to know the tremendous lot of things he has done in a few years.

Coward has been in the theater since he was 10 years old. In 27 years of professional life—I bring the record up to date here, although the autobiography stops at 1931—he has been actor, dancer, singer dramatist, librettist, lyricist, composer, director and producer. Of course, he considers himself primarily a dramatist and, in the 17 years he has been writing plays, 16 have been staged or published. I include as one item nine short plays produced and published here this season under the collective title, "Tonight at 8:30," and the famous "Cavalcade," which had musical interludes and was of spectacle proportions but was essentially a drama. In addition, he has been part or sole author and composer of eight musical shows—revues and operettas. He has acted in half or more of his product both in England and the United States.

From this it may be deduced that Mr. Coward is a going concern, decidedly so. Now, and for the past 10 years at least, he has been coining money—a pleasant circumstance which eluded him for several years and which may give him the cold shoulder in the future. He is one of the handful of English and American players who could draw a crowd even if the divertsment was merely a reading of the telephone directory. His plays do not always receive unanimous critical acclaim, but the public flocks to them anyhow, especially when he is in the cast.

"Present Indicative" is a good piece of work and a valuable theater record. It is probably all for the best that Coward wrote it now rather than waiting until his twilight years, when mellowness might cause him to pull his punches. Of course, we expect a companion volume some day, continuing his career from the point where this one ends. Doubleday, Doran are the publishers.

FINGERPRINTS SOUGHT

LORAIN, O. (UP)—Police Chief Theodore Walker has asked permission to fingerprint all of the city's 11,000 school children. He made the request, he said after learning that fingerprints had been used to identify victims of the New London, Tex., school explosion.

REWARDS POLICEMAN

CLEVELAND (UP)—Patrolman Edmund Allen, police teletype operator, driving home from work in the early morning, saw a hold up and chased the robber. He lost his man, but every morning for a week he watched closely as he drove past the scene of the crime. Eight days later he captured his quarry.

BOOKIES HIT

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (UP)—The New Zealand Labor government is planning to renew its drive to replace bookmakers by totalizators as a measure of augmenting the country's revenue. With the return of racing prosperity to New Zealand, the total abolition of bookmakers is expected.

REFUGEES—Heeding the warning of the Madrid government, here are refugees fleeing the capital city of Spain as heavy bombardment by the insurgent forces continued. These folk are taking the last road open to Cuenca, after receiving food from the soldiers aboard the truck. Meanwhile Loyalist forces under General Miaja withstood heavy drives on the city by the Rebels.

EROSION TOLL 400 MILLIONS

Annual Loss To Reach Higher Unless Curbed

By FRED O. BAILEY

United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States is squandering its soil resources at the rate of more than $400,000,000 a year, according to H. H. Bennett, Chief of the Soil Conservation Service of the Department of Agriculture.

Bennett, who has been crusading for 10 years for soil conservation, estimated 100,000,000 acres of agricultural land already has been ruined or seriously impoverished by erosion during the past 100 years. Erosion has gained headway on another 200,000 acres, he said.

Millions of gullied farms, washed bare of top soil are "grim evidence that the people of this youthful nation have been squandering their rich heritage of productive soil more rapidly than any other nation, civilized or barbaric, of which we have any record," Bennett said.

The nation's soil plant is becoming less and less productive because of wind and water erosion, Bennett said. Fertilizer must be used in ever increasing quantities, he said. This has added considerably to the cost of crops.

"Unless we make rapid advance against the inroads of soil erosion, the cumulative cost to the nation during the next 50 years is likely to exceed $20,000,000,000 and may easily extend to beyond $30,000,000,000," Bennett said.

CHORINES MUST BE GLAMOROUS

Billy Burke Declares
Stage-Door Days
Are Over

By JOHN DUNLAP

United Press Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Billie Burke, always a defender of stage chorus girls, is a firm believer that screen chorus girls are as talented and ambitious a group as those in any other occupation.

Miss Burke, film star and wife of the late Florenz Ziegfeld, creator of the "Follies," decried the prevalent public conception of dancers as "dumb and lacking in ambition."

"To the contrary," Miss Burke continued, "during the years of my marriage to Mr. Ziegfeld I found them as a whole to be a group of gay, vital and well-groomed girls who take their careers as seriously as any star in the show."

"The old idea about chorus girls doting on champagne suppers and front row 'Johnnies' has been out of date for a good many years."

Upon close observation Miss Burke has discovered that chorus girls for the screen must be chosen by even more rigid rules than for the stage.

"They must be really more beautiful and glamorous than the star, for only the true beauty is outstanding as it flashes before the camera for a few fleeting seconds. The star of the production has careful lighting, special costumes and makeup applied to enhance all her good qualities. Not so the chorus girl. Her costume is the same as a number of other girls. Not must attention be paid to camera angles and makeup for her."

"Anyone who thinks the life of either a screen or stage chorine is an easy one is mistaken. It is one of the most difficult and oftentimes discouraging profession I can think of—and those who succeed deserve a great deal of credit."

U. S. PREFERS MILD TYPE OF CHEESE, FOUND

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Department of Agriculture has taken to nursery rhyme to make Americans "cheese conscious." A bureau of home economics bulletin is headed:

"To market, to market,
To buy a fine cheese."

Americans eat an average of four pounds of cheese each per year, the department found out. Approximately three pounds of that is produced in the United States. The remainder is imported from Europe.

Popular taste on this side of the Atlantic runs to the mild rather than to the sharp cheeses, the department said. American, or Cheddar, cheese is the most popular type with Americans.

Much of the Cheddar cheese is put on the market "green"—when it is a few weeks old. If the consumer pays less than 30 cents a pound for cheese, he may be sure it isn't ripe, says H. L. Wilson, Cheddar cheese specialist of the bureau of animal industry.

TWO STYLE SCHOOLS IN REALM OF SILKS

One Goes in for Sheers, the Other for Stiffs.

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

One may belong to either of two schools of fashion—that which favors heavy stiff silks with a regal air, or the one which favors diaphanous sheer silks that float about one gracefully as one dances. Stiff silk satins such as slipper satin or duchess satin are lovely choices for dramatic gowns with princess lines and gracefully gored or flared skirts. High empire bodices are flattering to graceful figures, and have a new and charming look. Some of the newest silk satins are studded with gold or silver sequins, or have halter straps of glittering sequins or rhinestones. Crisp silk taffetas are favorite choices for period gowns with off-shoulder necklines and wide skirts. Printed silk taffetas have new looking patterns such as colorful bowknots in vivid colors on white or cream. Stiff silk Lyons velvets are charming in princess dinner gowns with puffed sleeves and buttons all the way down the front, while there are rich silk damasks made in square-necked, puff-sleeve styles.

Sheer silks have a fresh look. There are silk chiffons, silk mouselines, silk nets, very sheer silk jerseys, all made with extreme skirt fullness which makes a charming picture in motion. Sometimes the skirts use layers and layers of the sheer silks. For young girls, rows of thick ruching or great wheels of ruching on the skirts and around the necklines are the most flattering styles imaginable. Very low-cut bodices back and front are the rule for formal affairs this season.

FULL-SEALED BACK

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Here is a very smart casual coat in beige fleece with fox collar dyed to match. This is a fitted model with very new and highly important treatment in the flared back that is multi-seamed in most unusual treatment. You will see more of this startling innovation in coat silhouettes as the season progresses, as it was one of the most enthusiastically applauded numbers featured in a recent fashion revue given by apparel style creators of the Chicago wholesale district.

FLASHES FROM PARIS

Veils are in riotous profusion. Flower prints are spectacular. Hats range from tiny calots to huge capelines.

Coats with a back flare achieve a new silhouette. Lingerie accents stress boleros of embroidered organdie.

Becoming blues are the color guide for the spring costume. Redingote costumes are made of lace and embroidered fabrics.

Fats Take Care! Stripes

"Must" for Summer Wear

It's going to be a bad summer this season for the fat girls.

Paris designers have decreed stripes—big, broad stripes. And many of them go 'round and 'round, a design never helpful to the woman with some extra pounds she would like to conceal.

Multi-colored stripes, usually set off by black, navy blue or white, are used for beach wear and simple country or resort dresses.

The greater part of the spring tweed suits are in multi-colored plaids, used in conjunction with solid color or in striped flannel with lines running one way on the jacket and the other way on the skirt. Most colorful of the striped prints are in silks for cocktail parties, dinner or evening wear.

Home Safety

In the United States, each year, about thirty thousand deaths result from accidents in the home, most of which are preventable. Falls cause the greatest number of them, fires come next, and besides this there is the habit of taking medicine at night without looking at the label, and finding out, too late, that the bottle contained poison. Too often poison is left around where children can get hold of it.

To prevent fires, have your chimneys and electric wiring inspected at times. Do not leave matches about where they can be stepped on and do not allow children to play with them. Only rags are likely to cause spontaneous combustion. Never start a fire with coal oil and be very careful in handling gasoline. Never use it for dry cleaning in a room where there is a fire.

Step carefully when going down cellar, lest you fall and break a hip. Be careful on icy steps. It is best to scatter ashes or salt on them to prevent someone falling. Waxed floors are a hazard. If there are elderly people in the home, it is best not to wax the floors.

Protective Foods

In this day of abundant shipping and refrigerator cars, there is no excuse for the stale diet, lacking in vitamins and mineral salts needed to keep the body healthy in cold weather. Our forefathers suffered from food deficiency diseases; eczema, rickets, scurvy and that tired feeling which was the harbinger of spring.

All this may be avoided with the well stocked green grocery just around the corner. It is not necessary to buy expensive delicacies, such as strawberries in January, in order to have the needed protective foods.

Cabbage, tomato juice, turnips, carrots and Irish and sweet potatoes supply vitamins and minerals. Oranges, lemons, grapefruit and tangerines are usually inexpensive in these very months when they are most needed. Raisins, prunes and dried fruits are valuable sources of iron. Less expensive canned fruits may be as valuable for food as the more expensive brands, and if fresh milk is out of reach, canned milk is almost as good.

It is a mistaken notion that fresh foods, such as these mentioned, are more expensive than bread, fats, sweets and other foods lacking the protective qualities needed in the winter.

Put-Away Space

In planning the small house, study how deep the closets and cupboards must be, in order to accommodate what you will want to put in them. For coats and dresses, they must be a little deeper than the width of a coat hanger. They should be arranged to use the whole space, to the ceiling. Either the door should open to the ceiling, or there should be small separate doors for the upper shelves. In these high shelves may be stored the out-of-season or rarely used possessions.

A pole, parallel with the wall, will accommodate the most hanging garments. There should be a shoe bag or shoe shelves for shoes. If room can be provided above or below the hanging garments, there should be extra shelves. In boxes of the right sizes, labelled with their contents, may be stored many small possessions.

A man's closet, which holds short hanging garments, may be fitted with many trays or shelves for his shirts, pajamas and under clothing. A towel rack, fastened to the door, is ideal as a place to keep his ties. To accommodate several hats on the shelf, have the hat stands of different heights that the hat brims may dove-tail over and under another. Study the wardrobe trunk and the shoe closet to see how every inch of space may be utilized.

Buts and fruits won't sink to the bottom of your cake if you heat them in the oven and mix them in a little flour before adding to the batter.

FATS' RELATION TO DAILY DIET

They Supply Fuel Needed for Our Body Activities.

By EDITH M. BARBER

AMONG the foods which supply us with fuel for our body activities are fats which are known as concentrated foods. Although fats contain the same elements, carbon, hydrogen and oxygen, that a's found in starches and sugars, the proportion of the first two is much larger. When they are burned by the body they produce two and a quarter times as much heat as do the other so-called fuel foods.

Fats differ in degrees of hardness. Liquid fats, such as olive, cottonseed, coconut and corn, are known as vegetable oils. From animal sources are produced fats from the livers such as cod and halibut oil. Besides these we have milk fat which is known as cream and which in its solidified form is called butter. From the adipose tissue of animals hard fats are obtained. The one most used in cooking and which is obtained from hogs is known as lard. Vegetable oils are often solidified by being treated with hydrogen in order to produce products which are known as hardened shortenings under various commercial trade names.

All of these fats and oils supply the same food value. Their digestibility, however, varies. The lower the melting point the less loss there is in digestion. Fats play an important part in the well-rounded diet, as they seem to act as regulators for the passage of food through the stomach. Contrary to the general opinion, there is no advantage in having food pass too quickly through the stomach. It should stay there long enough to be acted upon by the digestive juices in this portion of the alimentary canal. When, however, other foods are fried in fat, especially to the saturation point, digestion may be delayed too long on account of the coating of fat. For this reason fried foods should not have too large a place in the diet.

If fats are allowed to take too large a place in the diet a condition of overweight will result, as the body stores in the tissues what is not needed for immediate use. There should, however, be some storage in the interest of body health.

French Fried Onions.

Select six large onions, peel, slice, crosswise one-eighth inch thick. Separate the rings, using only the larger ones, saving the rest for other use. Cover with milk; soak one hour. Drain, dip in batter and fry in deep, hot fat (385 degrees Fahrenheit) about two minutes. Drain on soft paper.

Spinach With Cream.

1 peck spinach
Salt, sugar
Pepper
1 teaspoon minced onion
1/2 cup sour cream
Look over spinach and wash carefully. Cook without water in a covered kettle with a little salt and sugar six to eight minutes or until tender. Season with pepper and more salt, if necessary. Serve on a hot dish. Add minced onion to whipped sour cream and pile on top of spinach.

Mayonnaise

3/4 teaspoon mustard
1 teaspoon salt
Cayenne
1/2 teaspoon sugar
1 egg yolk
Lemon juice
Vinegar
1 cup oil
Mix dry ingredients and add egg yolk. Mix well, add one-half teaspoon vinegar and add oil slowly, beating with the egg beater. As the mixture turns thick thin with lemon juice or vinegar and continue adding oil. It should be very stiff when finished. Keep covered in ice box.

Potato Salad.

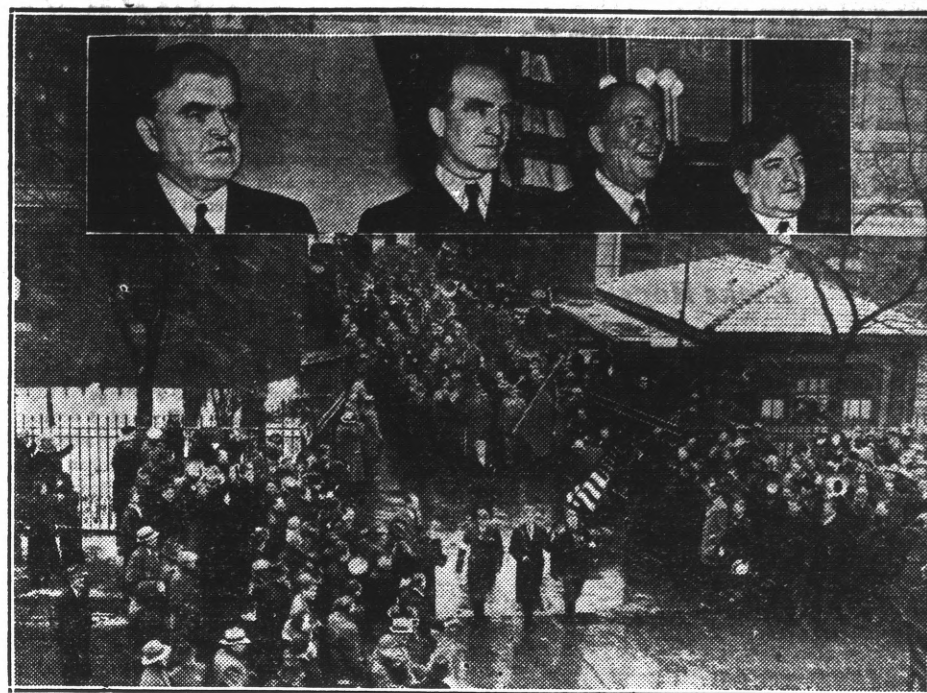

4 cups cold boiled potatoes
1 chopped onion
1 cucumber
2 pickles, chopped
1/4 cup French dressing
Cooked salad dressing or mayonnaise.

PURPLE TWEED SUIT FAVORED

Paris Offers Sports Wear In Pastel Shades

By MARY ENTRESS

United Press Staff Correspondent

PARIS (UP)—Paquin shows one of the best spring collections of the year. This house has been successful with buyers as well as private clients.

Mrs. Wallis Simpson ordered several new spring costumes and Mrs. Harrison Williams, voted the world's best dressed woman in 1936, chose 30 ensembles, coats, sports outfits and evening gowns from the collection.

One of the most popular suits in the collection is in tweed in a deep purple shade. The skirt is made flat and straight in back but is full and flaring in front. The short tailored jacket follows the lines of the skirt, with a straight back line that dips slightly while the front flares out below a fitted waist. It is worn with a turtle-neck sweater of navy blue wool.

Many of the sports suits in this collection are in pastel shades of wool or tweed. Robins Egg blue is used for one tweed suit, which is worn with a white blouse embroidered in tiny pink and blue flowers. The frilly, embroidered jabot is thrust outside the jacket opening.

Bands of navy blue grosgrain ribbon, two inches wide, are stitched together, up and down, to make a tailored afternoon suit. The jacket is fitted and belted, with a navy grosgrain band, and the suit is worn with a frilly blouse of pale blue.

Two reptile jackets are shown in the collection. One is in shades of gray and the other in shades of brown. The serpent skin has been treated to give the coat a soft suppleness.

SWEETWATER, Tex. (UP)—A grizzled veteran of box cars and hobo gles walked to the police desk here with a slender youth in tow. "This kid is too young to be prowl'ing round with us," the tramp said. "I am turning him over to you. You better tell his folks to come and get him."

Looks Hopeless

Five Years Old, Now

Wednesday afternoon the housewives of El Dorado County will begin to share in the results of labors which have been under way for several weeks when Jane Barton opens the fifth annual Homecraft Institute and Home Appliance Exhibit.

The Homecraft Institute and Exhibit gives every promise of being larger and more successful this year, even surpassing the excellent record of last year, both from a point of view of attendance and from a consideration of the number of participating home supply and furnishings dealers.

The large number of electrical appliances being shown this year created a problem for the management of the exhibit which could not have been so easily solved but for the generous and thoughtful co-operation of the local Pacific Gas & Electric Company officials.

The Republican is happy to join with the Pacific Rural Press in this fifth annual Homecraft Institute and hopes that as many as possible of El Dorado County's homemakers will attend the meetings daily, on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons at the Shakespeare Clubhouse.

PARADE OF SPORTS

By HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Writer)

PINEHURST, N. C. (UP)—Two days ago, in one of the most brilliant monographs ever to flow from my pen (and when I say "flow from my pen" I mean "hammered from my portable") I renounced professional baseball and adopted golf as my career.

Yesterday I played in my first important tournament—the North and South championship at Pinehurst. Knowing that it would be bad taste to describe my own round, I arranged to have Linde Fowler of the Boston Transcript, the dean of American golf writers, play with me and report my progress.

Mr. Fowler has reported golf for 37 years, and in that span has witnessed 62 national championships, seven Walker cup matches, numerous Ryder cup engagements, and known intimately such masters as Harry Vardon, Ted Ray, James Braid, J. H. Taylor, Alex Herd, George Duncan, Abe Mitchell, Bobby Jones, Walter Hagen—in fact all the golfing greats.

As we walked from the 18th green, after sinking long, curling downhill—and fourth—putts, Mr. Fowler paid me a compliment I always will cherish. "I have seen them all," he said, "but you're in a class by yourself."

His report of my round follows: "Somebody once said, 'until you've had delirium tremens you ain't seen nothing.' I say, 'until you've seen McLeMore play golf, you ain't seen delirium tremens.'"

"He and I played in the qualifying round of the North and South championship and led the field quite a while, for we started at 7:30 a. m., finished at 10:01, so far ahead of the next pair that many thought we had picked up at the ninth.

"We should have. "Actually, we did play the full 18 and passed in our customary returns. N. C., which in any other state means 'no card,' but down here means North Carolina. McLeMore thought it would be best not to have the cards posted because most of the field had not started by the time we finished, and if the others saw our scores they would consider the course too difficult and not play.

"It is a shame he is not equally considerate of the shrubbery, birds, and trees on the course.

"Ordinarily I am a pretty fair golfer, never more than 110 under good conditions, and usually a stroke or two better in competition. But I couldn't keep my mind on my game. I was too fascinated watching my partner. He spends three minutes on every tee fixing his grip. His process is much akin to a piccolo player fingering the port-holes. Once the fingers are quiescent, the footwork begins. Placing his feet for a stance, McLeMore does a dance that Fred Astaire couldn't manage, even if stung by a bee. It is a cross between a rumba, the double shuffle, and pure restlessness.

"I have it from McLeMore that he is looking for a professional berth in golf. He wants to be the professional at some club. I am sure he wants to be the teaching pro, not the playing pro. This is wise, because he can't play. Maybe he can teach. Certainly he can if there is a field for a teaching pro whose motto is 'watch me and do it some other way.'

"In summing up his game I would say it is unusual. There's nothing like it anywhere else in the world. For that every greens keeper in the world should be thankful. He can do more damage to turf in five minutes than 3,000 Japanese beetles, working in relays, can do in a year."

Thank you, Mr. Fowler, but if I had been watching the greatest players in the world for 37 years and still had to name the explosion shot off the tee as my best stroke, I would not criticize a newcomer, who, despite your discouragement, some day will sweep across the golfing heavens like a subway train.

FOOD ABSOLVED OF GOUT BLAME

Malady Increasing, Is Opinion of Clinic
Physician

ROCHESTER, Minn. (UP)—Gout has survived the depression. In the opinion of Dr. P. S. Hench, of the Mayo clinic. "Cases of gout at the Mayo clinic have increased since the repeal of prohibition," Dr. Hench said, "but excess of alcohol and food cannot be considered the cause of this centuries-old malady."

"Contrary to common opinion, gout is not caused by too much food and liquor, but from excesses of alcohol and food there may result flareup in symptoms and gouty arthritis."

The common assumption that gout has disappeared is erroneous, the physician said. On the average, three or four new cases come to the Mayo clinic each week.

THE BOOK MARK RESUMES HERE

"Gone With the Wind" unless we suffer from some sort of hallucination and we see the same copy in each old book store.

We asked a book seller if he ever sold any copies of "Lucile"? He thought for a minute and answered, "Yes, we sell a copy once in a while to the lover-lorn." But we think he was spoofing us.

May we suggest some books for April reading (not "Lucile")? For those who like historical novels Margaret Irwin's well-documented "The Stranger Prince," will be pleasant reading. So great a critic as William Rose Benet calls it "one of the most glowing historical novels of our time." It is a romance of the days of Charles the First of England. A journey with Erna Fergusson to Guatemala for those who like fireside travel. Miss Fergusson is the gayest of traveling companions. In her book "Guatemala" she shows you a country still unspoiled but certain to become the "tourists paradise" before long. Flannery Lewis' "Suns Go Down," will please those who like full-length portraits and western settings. It is the story of the author's grandmother, a woman with tang and substance in her nature whose life in Virginia City covers a period of 75 years.

We asked a man who has just returned from Italy, which American writer was most read by Italians. "Jack London," he replied, "in spite of the Fascist regime, although Italians are as much interested in the adventure stories as in those with a socialist trend."

After seeing the exhibit of Jack London's first editions at Mills College we were impressed sufficiently to look into several histories of American literature and critical studies and we were surprised to see the amount of space allotted to Jack London.

What a subject for a picaresque romance Jack London's life offers! He had more adventures than Anthony Adverse. Growing up on the Oakland waterfront, he sold papers, swept out saloons, worked in canneries. When he was 15 years old he was leader of his gang and was robbing oyster beds in his sloop the "Razze Dazzle." When he was 17 he went on his first sea voyage, a 7-month cruise off the coast of Siberia. After this cruise there were some voyages to Japan. Tiring of the sea he became a land tramp, riding freight cars as far east as Niagra. He had always been a reader and after these adventures he felt the urge to write but knew he was unprepared. He went to Oakland high school where he found the work too slow and prepared himself for the college examination outside of school. The lure of the Klondyke however cut short his college career.

Having established himself as a writer of swift and vivid action stories, his success was rapid and assured. "The Call of the Wild" and his other books like it, have an enduring quality that will live in the American literary tradition. One critic goes so far as to call him the first representative California writer since neither Mark Twain nor Bret Harte were Californians.

Although Jack London made a cult of brute force, those who knew him never failed to find him generous and sympathetic. We saw him once in a railway station waiting for a train and remember his quizzical blue eyes and the abounding vitality of his walk as he tramped up and down the station platform.

Oakland doctors held a "hobby" show last week. We were interested in the Lincoln collection of Dr. Milton Shutes. Besides many clippings and photographs, Dr. Shutes exhibited books from his collection of 25000 volumes on Lincoln. One was a copy of the earliest book written about Lincoln, "Campaign Biography," written by Hannibal Hamlin and another was the most difficult book to obtain on Lincoln, "Life on the Circuit With Lincoln" by Major Henry Whitney. With the exception of Illinois, California has the best Lincoln collections in number, size and rarity of material in the United States.

WASHINGTON (UP) You have heard of the Stone Age when primitive men hit animals on the head with mallets to obtain food and of the iron age of machinery.

Now comes Prof. A. F. Greaves-Walker of the University of North Carolina with the prediction that mankind is entering a glass age. It sounds as if the southern educator has seen some of the new-fangled ideas used at the Chicago Century of Progress and found that they were practical. "Just ahead of us lies the 'glass age,'" Prof. Greaves-Walker said in a report to the American Chemical Society.

"We have records of a stone age and an iron age. Why should we marvel at the fact that we will, in my opinion, very definitely enter the 'glass age' within the next 10 years?"

FIRST VACATION

WATERVILLE, Me. (UP) — Mark Spiller, 84, a master forger, took time off to celebrate his birthday anniversary for the first time in 63 years, but only because of a fractured leg. He is the fourth generation in his family to follow the axe manufacturing trade. A son and grandson also work at the factory.

Unloads of fruits and vegetables at San Francisco in 1936 amounted to 25,277 cars.

LINCOLN-ZEPHYR ON DISPLAY AT INSTITUTE

An unusual and added feature this year at the Homecraft Institute will be the Ford V-8 and Lincoln Zephyr display at the curb, directly in front of the Shakespeare Clubhouse on Bedford Ave. The exhibit which will consist of two sedans one of each model and makes mentioned above, and is being arranged through the courtesy of J. HERE'S RECIPE FOR MODERN $13,000,000 OFFICE BUILDING

WASHINGTON (UP) — As the new Interior Department building — first building in Washington planned and constructed by the New Deal — approaches completion it has been taken apart figuratively and dissected.

The occasion was the release of the most complete report on the ingredients of a building ever made for a structure of comparable size.

The New Deal discovered that the recipe for the $13,000,000 building includes:

Enough concrete to build a five foot sidewalk from Washington to New York.

Sufficient structural steel to reach to the moon and half way back again if it were made into fine gauge wire.

Enough glass to make more than 100,000 milk bottles.

So many door knobs that, piled on each other, they would reach as high at the Empire State Building in New York City.

13,650 telephones, enough to serve Annapolis, Md.

A total of 14,100 door hinges, which could "swing" the Statue of Liberty.

The study was undertaken to provide "a yardstick to gauge the broader effects of such PWA construction in the absence of full and authoritative information of the extent of 'behind the lines' employment generated by construction."

Department of Labor statisticians find the ration of work in forests and quarries, on railroads and in factories to prepare materials used in construction was 3.6 hours for each man thus engaged to one hour on the construction site.

Still on the serious side, the dissection brought to Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes the following list of ingredients for his new 7½ story, block-long building:

Hours of gainful employment in private industry, 9,202,000.

Building materials valued at $5,874,000.

An hourly average wage on the construction job of $1.11.

Wages at the construction site, $2,215,000.

The figures are those of Jan. 1, gathered from contractors, sub-contractors, fabricators and others connected with the construction and from the Labor Department and its bureaus.

Their contracts covered expenditures of $10,573,510. With land and certain equipment and fixtures, the total cost of the building when it is ready for occupancy shortly is estimated at $13,000,000.

The ratio of "behind the scenes" to construction labor proved to be higher in the PWA-built federal building than in PWA non-federal projects. The Labor Department has found the latter ratio to be 2.5 to 1.

Wages on the site ranged from 78 cents an hour for excavation workers to $1.62 for structural steel workers.

The building differs from those government buildings constructed in the Hoover administration in its simplicity, which in respect to precision of lines and absence of adornment follows the modernist school. Set on 5½ acres, it has a basement and sub-basement and is equipped with 20 elevators and eight escalators.

Eminent Figures Once Grocerymen

Many eminent figures in the history of the world have been in the grocery business, according to a statement by the National Association of Retail Grocers in connection with National Grocers' Week, April 5-10.

Abraham Lincoln, for instance, served for a time as a grocery clerk at a neighborhood store down in southern Illinois. If business had been more active it is entirely within the range of conjecture that the Great Emancipator might have made the grocery business his life effort. As it was, however, he had so much time on his hands that he was able to study law and become president of the United States.

Charles II of England went into the grocery business in a big way. He withdrew the charter of the London grocers' guild and ran the food distribution of the city by himself—for a while. It was finally made evident that it required more ability than the king had to run the groceries of a city satisfactorily.

The son of Peter King, who became Lord Chancellor of England early in the 18th century, was a grocer at Exeter. He served his apprenticeship as did Lincoln, but business was so bad that he had time for study in other directions.

Walter Reichert, Lake County, has started an experiment in walnut fertilization.

OSTRICH FEATHERS STRIKE NEW NOTE

Used in Abundance for Trimming and for Capes.

From Hollywood comes the word that ostrich feathers are being used in abundance both as a trimming and to fashion entire capes and coats—the summer edition of the heavy fur cape and fur decoration for costumes. Old-fashioned is a favorite expression in the new fashion vocabulary; the graceful, flatter feathers of our grandmothers, for two outstanding generations.

Following the high-fashion note of winter—accessories trimmed with fur, this new ostrich mode follows logically with cape of ostrich and hat, gloves and handbag trimmed with ostrich plumes. Another variation of this charming trend is the use of tiny curled ostrich plumes trimming evening gowns of transparent, slightly-starched marquisette; a two-color theme is the usual choice. Bunches of the curly feathers are loosely strewn over the skirt and decorate the short puffed sleeves. From hats to heads is another ostrich whim—sleek coiffures for formal evening events, literally crowned with tiaras of tiny plumes, either matching or contrasting in color with the gown.

FLOWER TRICKS

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

As everybody who is fashion-informed knows it's going to be a tremendously flowery season. The new hats from Paris tell you that. So do the wild-with-color new silks, linen and cotton prints, and so also do the boutonnières and the corsage bouquets and the clusters of flowers at the new low daytime necklines. And if you are sensitized to topnotch vogue you will wear fresh-cut flowers to your hearts desire. What's more, you will be wearing your fashionable posies from garden and hot house in a tricky way that departs from the conventional, the uneventful, the prescribed. Just to underscore the idea of novelty in ways of wearing, note two clever flower "tricks" are here pictured. The fact that fancy head-dress is an approved fashion inspires the new and regal fantasy shown above. The queenly coronet is made of the same material as the gown, surmounted with a cluster of real orchids. By the way, the white glaze kid gloves by Aris bespeak Paris in every detail, especially in that they are trimmed with dainty petit point. The diamond clips and bracelets give accent to vogue for handsome jewelry. The very last word is to carry your orchids as the young woman wearing the cape is so doing. The useful swagger cape, so lovely to wear over party frocks is of lusterless velvet.

STYLE NOTES

Flowers on your spring hat! Plaid sports coat are wonderfully attractive. Umbrella - tucked and pleated skirts are smartest ever. Navy-and-white is a leading color idea for spring outfits. Silks, linens and cottons speak boldly in terms of gay stripes. Saucy veils and colored doekin gloves add the "touch that tells." Patent leather for shoes, hats, bags and other costume accents is "last word."

Bouquets of Flowers for Pattern for New Fabrics

In evening chiffons and crepes, big bunches of mixed flowers form handsome bouquets. Poppies, cornflowers and buttercups mingle their colors with green leaves and golden wheat on a background of black or white.

The pattern appears in both crepe and chiffon in order that the two materials may be used together in the same evening gown.

Household Hints

By BETTY WELLS

"NOT as a precious gift... you couldn't have given me this house if I'd only known the catch to it," Adelaide was adamant. . . . and furious. "Not if I'd had the remotest idea of how many miles of curtains I'd have to make. Well, count them yourself, if you have your doubts."

We found Adelaide simply engulfed in a cloud of ecru ninon. She'd just finished putting up curtains at the thirteen windows in the living room and dining room. Now she was starting those for the bedrooms. It was a house she and her husband had just bought in high enthusiasm as the most perfect house in the world and everything they'd ever dreamed of. Now Adelaide was ready to give the whole business away. And we didn't much blame her because she had been too ambitious about the headings. She was basting on buckram headings, then pinch pleating them and, of course, they looked very smart at the windows. But when the time came to clean them, there would be a problem. Obviously it would be too expensive impractical to send all those curtains to the laundry every time they got dirty. On the other hand, to wash them herself would involve taking off the buckram and then putting it on again and setting all those pleats again. What a job for windows to the number of thirteen plus.

"But what can I do now?" wailed Adelaide. "And I'd like some kind of a finish at the top other than just a rod through a hem."

There is a buckram with snaps that is a little simpler to negotiate, but that too would involve ripping it off and rebasting it at each washing, which is too much work where there are so many windows. We told her we'd have a simple wooden moulding cornice made for each window. Then have an ordinary rod under it with the rod run through the curtain in the usual way. This will dress up the top of the curtain, yet actually it will be quick and easy to take the curtains down and put them up again for rehanging after washing.

About Shawls.

Shades of Shawls . . . how very lady-like we'd feel with a Paisley around our shoulders!

The reason those lovely Paisley designs have endured even after the shawls themselves went out of fashion is that the colorings and patterns are so infinitely suitable in so many combinations. Like Oriental rugs, they fit in most anywhere because the delicate intricacy of the designs gives them the effect of fine brocades, and their colorings, although brilliant, have the quality of taking on something of the tone of another color they may be used with.

Napoleon, Queen Victoria and thrifty Scottish weavers have made the history of the Paisley in the western world. The shawls came from the East like so many of our decorative arts. Napoleon's soldiers brought some of them back from their Egyptian campaign, and Paris went wild over them. English officers in India came home laden with them among their treasures, and Queen Victoria adored them.

But these original cashmere shawls from the East were very expensive, often as much as ten thousand dollars! No wonder only queens and empresses could afford them until a canny Scottish weaver of the town of Paisley developed in the early part of the Nineteenth century a woven copy that was beautiful yet sold for only a hundred dollars. For fifty years Paisleys, as they were called from then on, were the rage in Europe and America and no lady of fashion felt well dressed without one. Even to this day we love the designs and use them for everything from blouses and bedspreads to oil cloth—yes indeed!

WHEN the raging flood waters in the Ohio and Mississippi Valleys subsided, after a record-breaking rise in January and February, the Red Cross estimated that the homes of a million and a quarter persons had been affected. More than 750,000 of these victims came under the care of the Red Cross because they needed rescue, shelter, food, clothing and medical attention. Many thousands continued for six weeks or more in Red Cross refugee centers, before their homes were fit to live in again.

Work of restoring families to their homes was the second great task of the Red Cross. For those families who had no savings or credit or other resources, the Red Cross assumed responsibility, while several Government agencies prepared to lend money and help to others. Government, state and local agencies assisted in cleaning up homes. In thousands of instances the Red Cross repaired, rebuilt and refurnished houses. Where workmen lost their tools, these were supplied by Red Cross, just as any necessities needed for self-sustaining family life were given.

The American public gave $22,000,000 to the Red Cross flood relief fund, in contributions ranging from 10 cents to fifty thousand dollars.

This money was spent for maintenance of a vast rescue fleet of 2,700 boats; for maintaining 750,000 refugees in camps, their homes or with friends and relatives; for 253 hospitals; for food and clothing; and for rehabilitation of these stricken families. The Red Cross estimated that 75 per cent of the fund would go toward repairing and refurnishing homes and giving other necessary aid to families so that they could resume a normal life once more.

The assistance given by the Red Cross is a gift to the flood sufferers from the contributors to the fund; loans are never made by the Red Cross. The help given is on the basis of the family's needs and all accounts of the Red Cross are audited by the War Department and a report filed with the U. S. Congress.

The ordinance providing for the collection of municipal taxes in two installments next year, was laid over and will be brought up at the next meeting. There was no opposition to its passage. The council has instructed the city clerk to make her plans for collection of taxes in two payments next year and there is every indication that the ordinance will carry when presented.

The amendment to the business license ordinance was laid over and the claim of $1,000 as the city's share in the purchase of the airport with the county was approved and the check signed to be paid; subject to obtaining satisfactory title to the property.

Mrs. Lucille Labordette was named to expert the city accounts for the year, the city attorney was asked to prepare an ordinance regulating sign boards within the city, the salary of Harrison McBeth was advanced from $75 per month to $100 per month and the board granted Councilman Fred N. Hosking a two-month leave of absence.

During Mr. Hosking's absence Mayor Faugstad will assume the administrative duties over which he has charge.

The council adjourned to meet again on April 19.

General Pershing Turns Talk Of War

LINCOLN, Neb. —General John J. Pershing, greyed but bearing his 76 years lightly on straight shoulders, stood under a tree near his home listening to the song of a red bird.

"General," asked newspapermen, "may we have your comment on America's entrance into the World War 20 years ago?"

"Hush, gentlemen," said the war-time commander in chief of America's forces, "hear that red bird sing. That is more important to me right now than recollections of war."

Young Democrats End Meeting With Brawl

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP)—The Kansas City League of Young Democrats had two sets of officers today after an election brawl in which the retiring president was slugged on the head, the treasurer punched on the chin and the sergeant-at-arms had the sleeve torn from his coat.

An insurgent faction took over the meeting hall after routing the old guard in disorder.

The trouble arose over the question of who had the right to vote.

Republican Classified Ads Always Pay

PAYMENTS IN JOB INSURANCE PROGRAM MAY BE SIMPLIFIED

SACRAMENTO—The Assembly Unemployment Committee of the California legislature, which is meeting Friday to consider bills affecting the Unemployment Reserves Act, has under consideration a new plan for the payment of unemployment compensation.

The new plan, agreed upon by the Unemployment Reserves Commission recently, specifies payment of compensation on practically the same basis as at present, as far as total sums are concerned. However, there are a few minor variations. The big item is simplification of the method of figuring the sum to which the unemployed individual is entitled.

Under the present law, each benefit would be paid on a basis of one half an unemployed individual's salary, with a minimum benefit of $7 per week, and a maximum of $15 per week.

The original statute required a complex system of hours worked, normal weeks of employment, and a number of other determinant factors that were confusing.

Under the new plan, a chart specifies the exact payment to be made on the basis of quarterly earnings, thereby eliminating the necessity of extensive figuring to obtain the amount due.

The Unemployment Reserves Commission studied the proposed benefits structure change for some months, and delved into figures of unemployment compensation not only in the United States, but also into those of other countries before reaching a conclusion. The new system of figuring benefits was characterized by Samuel Leask, Jr., Santa Cruz, as one of the most constructive contributions to unemployment compensation ever made.

The plan was worked out through the combined efforts of J. L. Matthews, Covina, chairman, Leask; C. B. Tibbets of San Marino, large industry representative; John F. Chambers, Oakland, and John S. Horn, Los Angeles, representatives of labor.

NUGENT VILLAIN IN FEATURE AT EMPIRE TONIGHT

With the casting of Eddie Nugent as a villain, the screen production, "Man of the People," which comes to the Empire Theater tonight only, broke a record for changing the types of screen players.

Nugent has always played light comedy roles but in the new picture he tries to steal from Florence Rice and make love to her at the same time.

In this picture Joseph Calleia changes for the first time and becomes a hero instead of a villain, while Noel Madison gives up his usual "heavy" characterizations and does comedy work. Ted Healy sticks to his type, as do Thomas Mitchell and Jane Barnes.

Nugent was recently seen in "Pigskin Parade" and "The Big Game." The young actor started his screen career as prop boy at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios where he appeared in the new story which concerns a young lawyer's attempt to battle the crooked political organization of a metropolitan city. Lucien Hubbard was the producer, and Edwin L. Marin directed from a story by Frank Dolan, former newspaper man.

REFRIGERATOR DRIVE OPENED

"Pays For Itself And Then Pays You,"
Keynote

Under the sponsorship of the Electric Appliance Society of Northern California, local dealers are launching the fourth annual refrigerator campaign today.

The keynote of the campaign "It pays for itself, then pays you — The thrifty new electric refrigerator," is being stressed as leading dealers point to conclusive tests made by reliable authorities showing that a modern refrigerator will save its user considerably more than its original cost in a period of time. Tremendous savings can be made in the family budget with an electric refrigerator, for housewives can take advantage of special prices offered by most food stores and can keep a week's supply of meats, vegetables, eggs and other foods fresh and tasty.

The electric refrigerator also makes possible other savings through the elimination of food spoilage and the ability of the housewife to prepare leftovers into tempting meals that take the place of more costly foods.

Savings in the budget are not the only advantages, as buying in advance eliminates many trips to the store and gives the busy home makers more time for leisure and recreation.

The thrifty new electric refrigerator, through mechanical perfection of even the smallest details, costs much less to operate than earlier models, thus adding one more saving to the list.

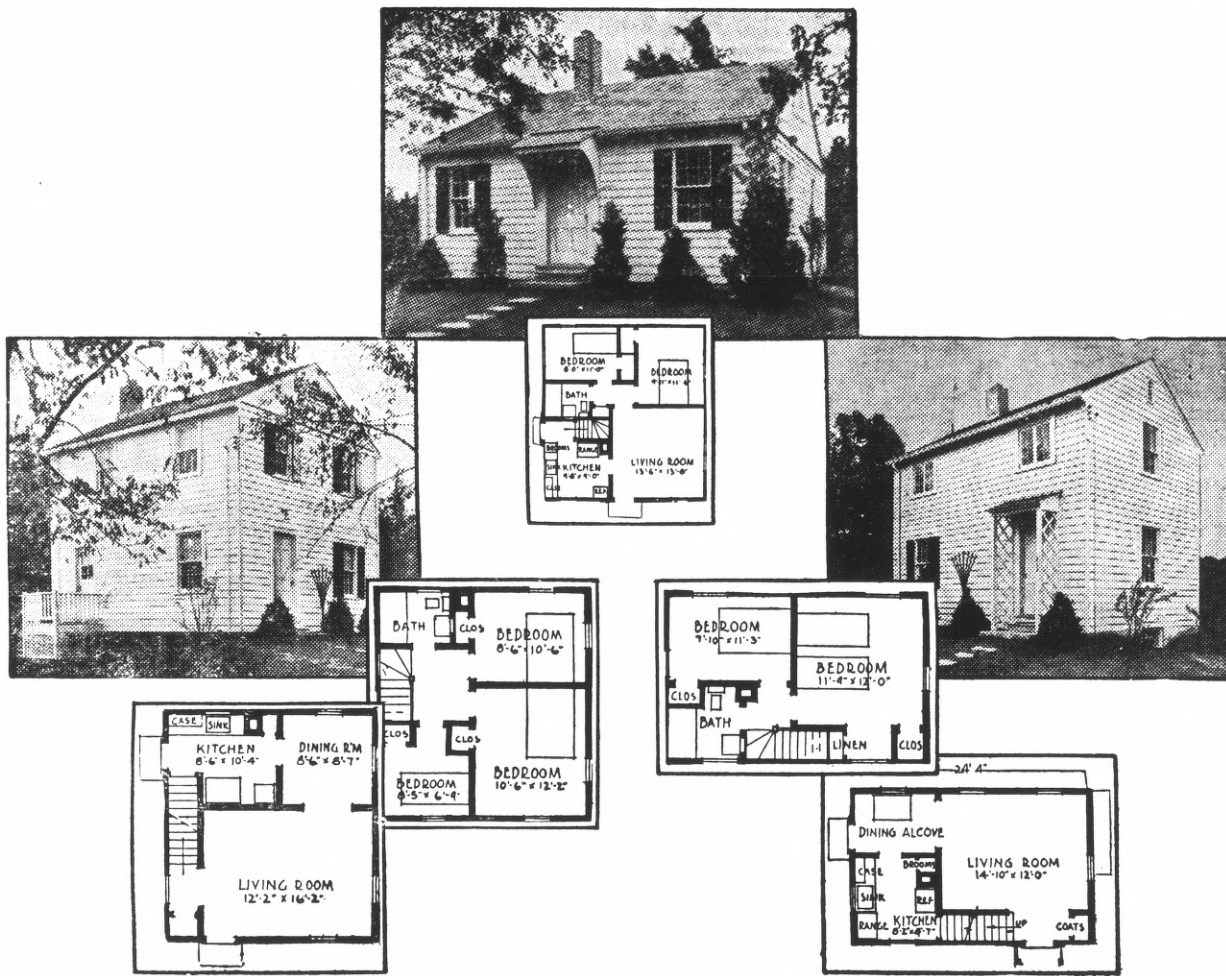

Women are exclaiming over the beauty of the new refrigerators, with their graceful, symmetrical streamlines and their superb finish. Yet the outward appearance is merely a reflection of the superlative efficiency and convenience of the interior.

The new refrigerator shows a great improvement in construction which makes them more convenient than ever before. Increased accessibility and storage space are brought about by the use of revolving, removable collapsible shelves and other marvelous features.

Faster freezing is provided in the 1937 electric refrigerators and ice trays are more convenient to use than ever before. In the new refrigerators there are places for everything and plenty of room for everything from largest turkey down to those hard-to-manage little dishes.

Mechanical performance has been perfected with this age of advanced achievement, giving the new refrigerator more power and longer life. In

HOME OWNERSHIP IS MADE EASIER FOR THE SMALL SALARIED; FHA TERMS OPEN DOORS OF OPPORTUNITY FOR WAGE-EARNERS

Color Scheme Should Be Carefully Chosen

Properly chosen color can make a room seem larger or smaller, can aid in illumination and have a decided psychological effect upon everyone living in the house. It is advisable to check on the effect of colors before decorating a room.

A ceiling which is darker than the walls will cause the room to have a top-heavy effect. Dark floors make the room seem larger and form a satisfactory background for rugs and furniture.

Well-planned homes may be financed under the terms of the Federal Housing Administration program.

Consider the charm of these small homes, well within reach of every man or woman earning $2500 or under, who can afford to pay about $25 each month for shelter.

The exteriors give immediately the feeling of homeness. The lines are dignified; the shutters trim; the windows with bright notes of color. The wide white board finish is in the best tradition of the fine old American farm homes. As a part of one of the small modern homesteads of one, two or five acres, or in city residential sections, these small homes, from the exterior approach, seem to be almost ideal.

Consider also the interiors, amazingly efficient and modern, including gracious living rooms, dining quarters, kitchens with built-in shelves and modern stoves and refrigeration, bed rooms with cupboard in each, modern bath rooms; and light, air and sanitation up to government standards in every respect. Each house has hardwood floors throughout.

These are not guess-work houses. They can be and have been built near Washington, D. C., in lumber, for costs ranging from $2500 to $4500. In fact, in 1,000 communities houses like these are being built this spring by lumber dealers throughout the United States to demonstrate what can be done under modern conditions and employing modern methods of construction to make possible "the most house for the least money."

Financed under the Insured Mortgage system of the Federal Housing Administration, these and similar homes can now be built and paid for over long-time periods. A 20 per cent down payment is required. Up to 80 per cent of the value of the finished property including house and lot can be borrowed and repaid over 20 years, in monthly payments of around $25, which include principal, interest, taxes and insurance.

The three illustrated have been developed from floor plans of houses "B", "D" and "E" in SHA's Technical Bulletin No. 4 on small home planning, and home equipment dealers in more than 50 lines of industry are cooperating with the government and the lumber industry to make possible such small homes at low cost. The results of their planning are making possible the "package home" of 1937. For further information address M. O. Waugh, 2519 Connecticut Avenue, Washington, D. C.

Inspect Plumbing When Buying Home

The prospective owner of a new home should assure himself that the materials used in the plumbing system and the workmanship necessary for its installation are the best available. As most of the pipes are installed under the floors and behind finished walls, heavy expense is involved in their replacement or repair.

The plumbing of a house to be financed under the Insured Mortgage System of the Federal Housing Administration is carefully inspected.

The California Irrigation Districts' Association will hold its semi-annual convention at Turlock, Stanislaus County, in June.

Bridge Luncheon To Be Set At Institute

A bridge luncheon is one of the best ways to show off your china and silverware. Luncheon mats are usually used instead of a tablecloth, and the dark background of the table sets off the dishes and silver to the best advantage, says Jane Barton.

A demonstration at the Homecraft Institute will show the proper way to set the table. The knife and soup spoon go on the right of the plate, with the water glass just ahead. The salad fork goes to the immediate left of the plate, with the luncheon fork on the outside. The folded napkin belongs to the extreme left of the forks; the butter plate and butter-knife just above. The spoon for coffee or tea is brought in on the saucer with the cup.

Tip to the lady who lunches alone: don't eat in the kitchen, feeling sorry for yourself. Spread a pretty mat on one corner of the dining-room table, or in the breakfast nook. Set the table properly and serve yourself as if you were company. It's almost as good a tonic for your spirits as a new hat!

Here's Secret About Nailing In Plaster

Most women can't get enough shelves in their kitchens. The only thing that prevents "just one more" is the plaster wall that you are afraid will not hold.

It is supposed to be impossible to put a screw into a plaster wall so that it will hold, but it can be done. Here is what you do. First drive a nail into the plaster and take it out. Then put the screw you wish to use in and it will immediately come out but then fill the hole with steel wool, or Brillo, plug the hole full, the screw will then screw in tight without cracking the plaster and it will hold heavy weights.

PHILCO NOW AT PYLE AND VANS

"Click"—There's Your Station, Boast For 1937 Models

Philco, which the world has come to know as "A Musical Instrument of Quality," presents its models for 1937 to El Dorado County residents through the dealership of Pyle & Vans, of Placerville.

"These new Philcos are something to write home about," declares Ernest Van Harlingen, who is the "Van" of the firm.

"Every Philco is engineered and built to the same high standards of quality, inside and outside. An excellent example of the scientific balancing achieved in Philco is the super-heterodyne circuit, used in all Philcos and raised to new heights of performance by Philco engineers.

"All American and Foreign Philcos are equipped with the Philco Foreign tuning system and the Philco color dial with foreign stations named and located.

"On six models the revolutionary Philco Automatic Tuning is a feature. Call letters of your favorite American stations are plotted on the tuning dial. You swing the call letter of the station you wish to hear to the bottom of the dial and 'click! there's your station' tuned instantly, silently and perfectly.

"I'm frank to admit I'm all hopped up over the wonderful performance of these new Philcos and I'm sure El Dorado County radio listeners will share my enthusiasm, once they see the sets demonstrated," Van Harlingen concluded.

Egg Beater Helps For Smooth Gravy

Instead of mixing the water and flour with a spoon, which makes it very difficult to mix and completely get rid of any lumps, use a rotary egg beater and you will find that with a very few turns the flour and water are completely mixed.

PROFESSIONAL HOSTESS WILL "KILL" PARTY

"One secret of successful entertaining," says Peggy Tudor, "is to let your guest alone."

Nothing is worse than the "professional" hostess—the woman who can't relax a minute, who devils her guests into doing this and having some more of that, when like as not all they want to do is talk about themselves.

Do everything you can for their comfort and amusement, of course—and then let them have a good time in their own way. See that there's plenty of whatever you're having to eat, and that the table is set with your loveliest china and silverware. Nothing says so much about a woman as her table—beautiful things and gracious service make the simplest dinner a symbol of your good taste and hospitality.

But in your zeal for entertaining, don't think that good taste in your table is something to save for strangers. It's just as much appreciated—and perhaps more important—in the bosom of your family. You can make your home a pleasanter place to live in—keep your husband happy and make your children proud—just by giving a little more care to the way your serve their meals.

Cut The Stem And Lettuce Separates

A tight head of lettuce can be easily separated without breaking the leaves by cutting sufficient of the stem to loosen some of the leaves. Then put the cut end of the lettuce under the running water faucet and the water will run in between each leaf and separate it. Then remove another piece of stem, and continue until all leaves are separated.

If a few drops of vinegar are added to the water in which eggs are to be poached, they will hold together and the white will not separate in the water.

PWA APARTMENTS

FORMAL DINNER RULE OUTLINED

Jane Barton Explains Arrangement Of Silver Ware

The chief difference between the family dinner and the formal dinner is usually in the number of courses. The rules for setting the table, with minor exceptions, are the same, says Jane Barton, who will demonstrate the proper procedure at the Homecraft Institute, beginning tomorrow.

First, silver should always be placed on either side of the individual plate so that you begin with the outside piece, and use each piece in succession toward the plate. Second, knives and spoons go on the right of the plate—the spoons on the outside, the knives on the inside, with their blades turned toward the plate. Third, forks go on the left of the plate, in the order in which they are to be used. (The only time you ever put a fork on the right is when you're using an oyster or cocktail fork, which goes to the extreme right of the spoons).

Spoons for coffee or tea are laid on the saucer with the cup. Coffee may be served with the meal or afterward.

The water glass goes on the right, just in front of the knife. If more than one glass is to be used, arrange them in a semi-circle. The bread-and-butter plate, with the butter-knife across it, goes on the left in front of the forks.

The carving knife goes on the right of the meat platter, the carving fork on the left. If there is no maid, a tablespoon and serving fork should be laid on the table to the right of each vegetable dish. When there is a servant, vegetable dishes do not appear on the table at all, but are served by the maid or butler, always from the left side of the guest.

Service for the formal dinner usually includes at each place the following pieces: on the right, the cocktail fork, soup spoon, knife for entree or fish course, and dinner knife; on the left, fork for entree or fish course, dinner fork and salad fork. (For the meat course, be sure your knives are of Stainless Steel and are kept sharp.) At the family dinner where fewer courses are served, unnecessary pieces are omitted.

Artist Gives Talent To Decorate Nursery

MILWAUKEE (UP) — Casmir Stapko had no money to donate when called upon by a community fund worker, but he did offer his unusual talent as a nursery decorator.

Community fund officials told him to go to work on the walls of the Children's Hospital. Stapko did, and now scores of children laugh and giggle at the pictures on their hospital room walls of Mother Goose, Popeye, Mickey Mouse and others of their beloved characters.

Best of all the bandaged children like Stapko's "the Cat's and the Dog's birthday dinner."

With his pallet, brushes and paint Stapko has been at work in the hospital for several months. His amusing murals brighten 15 rooms.

You can cut fresh bread easily if you'll pass the blade of the knife through a flame so that the blade becomes hot.

HIGHWAY DEATHS IN TWO MONTHS UP 7 PER CENT

SACRAMENTO — Death's undulled scythe swept through the ranks of California motorists with renewed vigor in the first two months of this year, Ray Ingels, director of the State Department of Motor Vehicles, announced today.

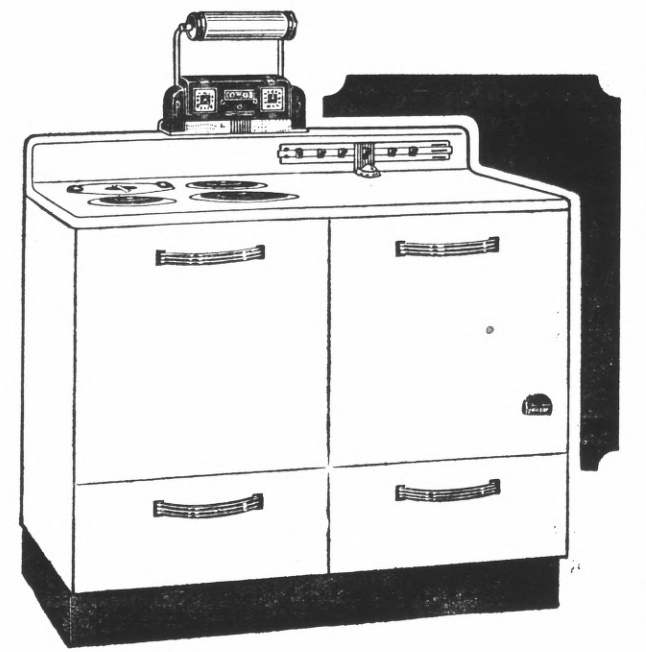

With 305 fatalities in January and 206 in February, Ingels said, the total for the two months was 511, an increase of 35 deaths, or 7.35 per cent over the 476 killed in the same period last year.

A grim warning was given by Director Ingels, who said: "If the present upward trend of highway accidents continues, there will be an average of one person killed or injured for every family in California within the next decade.

"Safe drivers in safe cars, will materially reduce this total," he declared.

fact, every possible means for the preservation of food and the preparation of frozen dainties makes the modern refrigerator a triumph from every standpoint.

The advantages of the modern electric refrigerator are so great that the housewife who has enjoyed them could fill a book on the subject. The preparation of frozen desserts, the new "cold cookery" and many other features not only provide "appetite thrillers" for the entire household, but make entertaining easier and more enjoyable.

An electric refrigerator is an investment in health and happiness in the home and a year-round necessity, enabling its owner to serve better meals at lower cost.

With all these advantages it is easy to understand how an electric refrigerator pays for itself.

FRUIT MARKETING BY AUCTION WORLD'S MOST PUBLIC WAY

CINCINNATI.—"Gold fish bowl" methods of operation make the selling of fruits and vegetables by auction markets in leading American cities the most publicly conducted system of marketing in the world.

Not only is every step in the marketing process open to public scrutiny at the auction, but growers and shippers on groves and farms thousands of miles away know to a penny the price received for every commodity sold.

"Publicity begins when the fruit and produce is unloaded from cars at the auction," says a report issued here by the American Fruit and Produce Auction Association. "Buyers representing jobbers, wholesalers, chain stores and retailers have every opportunity to make personal inspections before the sales begin. A catalog listing every commodity for sale is provided."

"Once the sales open in the auction room, every buyer present knows what each of his competitors is bidding for a given shipment. The bidding continues until the auctioneer has obtained the highest possible price for the grower's product."

"As a further protection, sales representatives of the grower or shipper are present on the auction stand to watch the progress of the auction and to further safeguard the grower's interest."

"During the sales, a double check on all transactions is made by two clerks to avoid errors in accounting, either to shippers or buyers. Once the sale is made, copies of all documents involved are furnished to the sellers and the buyers."

"The publication of auction prices following the sales helps dealers by moving the fruit more rapidly, and acts as a protection to the retailers, the grower who produced the fruit or vegetables, and the consumer who buys them."

Gigantic Warehouses

Handle Produce Crop

ST. LOUIS —Handling the flow of fruit and vegetables passing through the ten leading auction markets of the United States each year requires the utilization of more than 1,000,000 square feet of warehouse space, according to a bulletin issued here by the American Fruit and Produce Auction Association.

"Through these warehouses, swiftly pass more than 100,000 carloads of fruit and produce annually from growers in the producing areas thousands of miles away to big city buyers and on to the consumers," says the bulletin.

"On vast display floors in each auction market, samples of fruit and vegetables in the shipments to be sold each day are examined by the buyers representing jobbers, wholesalers, retailers, chain stores and independents."

"Were it not for such modern handling and display facilities plus the rapid and efficient sales methods employed on the auction markets, shippers of highly perishable products such as cherries, grapes, citrus and other kinds of fruit and vegetables could not sell in the vast quantities they do each year."

Keep Cool, Use Salt To Put Out Fat Fire

You may never have had the fat in a broiling pan catch fire, but accidents will happen and a fat fire is an obstinate fire. Don't ever try to put out a fat fire with water. Water and fat will not mix and water will only spread the fire. My tip is, don't lose your head. Keep cool, just grab the salt box and throw salt on the fire. Just keep throwing on a handful of salt and the fire will soon go out.

ARE YOU A GOOD COOK? IS YOUR GRAVY SMOOTH?

These might as well be asked in the same breath—for, alas and alack, the woman who has lumps in her gravy should hasten to repair this serious fault if she would attain the reputation of "Good Cook."

Try this:

Flour will dissolve immediately and mix in smoothly and quickly if you put it into hot fat or butter. In making gravies for roast beef and other roasts where no water is being used (never put any water in the pan when roasting beef), when ready to serve, remove roast and pour most of the hot drippings or fat into a crock, leaving only about a tablespoonful in the pan. Into this hot fat stir 1 tablespoon of flour and mix so that there are no lumps, and then add 1 cup of cold water and boil for 2 or 3 minutes. The juices which have been browned on the bottom of the roasting pan will dissolve and flavor and color your gravy. Don't forget to season it.

Where you have a watery gravy to thicken, don't try sifting the flour into that hot watery liquid, because you cannot stop it lumping if you do. Do this instead: Melt some butter, dissolve your flour in the butter and then dissolve that with a little cold water. Now you can pour that mixture into the hot watery gravy and all you have to do is stir as you pour it, then allow the gravy to boil for 3 to 4 minutes and you will have no lumps. Be sure to season your gravy with salt and pepper and perhaps a very little Worcestershire sauce.

HAT CROWNS LOWER AS SKIRTS SHORTEN

Skirts are climbing higher and higher and now rest between 14 and 16 inches from the ground. In order not to present an awkward silhouette, the big couturiers are elevating waistlines and thus preserve symmetry. Daytime dresses have high waistlines and evening gowns go even higher with Empire or 1910 waistlines.

Hat crowns are tumbling as skirt lengths climb. The flowerpot crowns of last season have come back to normal in order not to look ridiculous with the shorter skirts. Many crowns are normally rounded while some are squared and others irregular in shape.

It is difficult to say what width and proportions spring skirts will take. Some houses show tight, narrow and short skirts, similar to that which was so popular earlier in the season. Still other houses show skirts that are slim and straight in front but leave much back fullness, inspired by the Directoire silhouette.

To remove specks of yolk from the white of an egg, use an egg shell and the yolk speck will come away readily.

IF YOU'RE PLANNING FOR A PARTY, HERE ARE SOME TIPS

Recipe For A Successful Party: Take one part good food, two parts attractive service, add three or four congenial friends, mix well in a charming atmosphere, and—forget you're a hostess. Your friends will enjoy themselves without any further assistance from you.

Some don't on mixing people: Don't have people who are too far apart in age. Don't mix young marrieds with single boys and girls; it makes for complications. Don't try to mix people of the so-called "flippant," game-playing type with book-loving intellectuals. Some grown-ups think games are just silly and a waste of time; others, perfectly sane, get a big kick out of them. Gay Decorations put people in a festive mood right at the start. You can work wonders with a little crepe paper, a dash of imagination, and a few inexpensive gadgets. Key your color scheme to the season, red and green for Christmas, green for St. Patrick's Day, yellow and green for Easter; orange and black for Halloween; or work out your own ideas.

Cover all the lamps with crepe paper. Festoon the pictures with paper streamers and tie a bunch of balloons on the curtain rods. At informal parties it's fun to put up facetious signs like: "One way only" on the window, "Safety Zone" on the ceiling, "Keep off the shoulders," and other road signs. Imagination is cheap and it makes your party different.

Dress Up Your Table with the loveliest linen, china, and silverware you own. Use candlesticks, if you have them, at either end of the table, not in the center. The centerpiece should be a low bowl of flowers, fruit, or evergreens, never anything tall that gets in the way of people's vision across the table.

If you prefer, you can use paper tablecloths and napkins in holiday designs. For favors, try to get things that have individual significance for your guests; a toy automobile for the demon driver, a Jumbo pencil for the stenographer, a toy house for the architect. A trip through the jewelry store or jewelry department will give you lots of ideas for suitable favors and gifts that are not expensive.

What To Have To Eat: If it's an informal party, the food needn't be elaborate. Hot coffee and sandwiches, ice cream and cake or a frozen salad are

Bright Aluminum Pot Cleans Your Silver

To clean your flat silver—knives, forks, spoons, etc.—all you have to do is stand them in a bright and clean aluminum pot—don't use an old, tarnished pot—into which you have poured some boiling water, or very hot water, and a heaping teaspoon of baking or washing soda. Put the silver in—let it stand a minute—take it out, and you will find the tarnish all gone.

usually enough. Serve the food toward the end of the evening, on a table that's arranged with taste and charm, and the simplest refreshments will do you credit as a hostess. If you like, you may pass trays of canapés between games, and have dishes of nuts, olives, pickles, cheese, popcorn, and candy here and there for people to nibble on when they feel inclined.

Instant Cube Release Feature of New Refrigerator

Gone are the days when tugging, chopping, twisting gymnastics are necessary to obtain ice cubes from an automatic refrigerator. Shown above is the sensational new and efficient instant cube release feature exclusively in the 1937 Frigidaire. Developed in the research laboratories of the Frigidaire division of General Motors, the new type ice tray makes available instantly and with no effort on the part of the user from two to a dozen of more cubes, doing away with the necessity for holding trays under the water faucet and losing up to twenty per cent of the ice content in meltage. One grasps the tray firmly with one hand, lifts the lever with a finger of the other and there are the cubes ready for use without fuss or muss.

Lincoln's Store Had Very Limited Supply

It is likely that the grocery store in which Abraham Lincoln worked as a clerk down in southern Illinois did not have 100 items in stock. Yet the community which was dependent on the primitive store for food supplies managed to survive. In fact it is probable that the people in that region thought they were living very well, and they were by comparison with more remote areas. But ill health was prevalent and much misery marked the days of the residents. How much of it was attributable to the food supply and thereby to diet values may not be known.

ACCESSORY NOTES ON SPRING STYLES

Some of the trimmed sports frocks this spring are made of men's shirting, Chambrays in dusty roses, blues and olive greens, brown cottons splashed with small white figures and gray and white striped silks make both dresses and play suits combining skirt, blouse and shorts (longer than last year). Tucked bosoms and vests and pocket accents whose stripes run contrary to those in the blouse are among the mannish accents which have been borrowed for these feminine frocks.

Accessories hold a bright spot in the spring style spotlight. Several Fifth avenue shops display entire accessory ensembles in patent leather. Big patent leather bags, patent leather daisy boutonnières and black suede shoes tipped with the same shining leather are designed to wear with suits.

Other accessory notes are twin boutonnières to be worn on each lapel of a suit jacket. Sometimes they are rich carnations of the same color, again feather butterflies with bright spots on their wings and again gay feather fancies like those worn in Tyrolean hats.

Romantic Motif Marks New Gowns for Evening Wear

Embodying the glamour of the era when Vienna danced to the rhythms of Johann Strauss' immortal melodies, the new evening gowns recapture the flowerlike grace of a romantic century.

Starched nets and chiffons, white and pastel colored organzas and stiffened laces are the most important fabrics and pastel colorings are stressed.

Bodices for the most part are simple, many being adorned with big clusters of chiffon flowers in contrasting shades. Girdles are narrow and emphasize slender waist

MODERN COOKING IS VERY SIMPLE

Sauces Important to Dress Up Plain Cookery.

By EDITH M. BARBER.

"LIFE is so much more complicated today"—is a sentence appearing quite regularly in the journals of our period. In many respects this is, of course, the case but in the realm of housekeeping and especially cooking the reverse is the case. We are simplifying our menus and the dishes which make them up.

This simplification applies to recipes as far as title and methods are concerned. Even restaurant menus unless they are prepared by exponents of French cookery, are written in words which describe more or less nearly the dishes listed. There are a few French terms, however, that have been widely adopted and which we find in recipe books and on menus. There is "saute," for instance, which means fried in a small amount of fat in contrast to deep fat frying. There is "au gratin" which literally translated means "with browned crumbs" but which is used in not only this sense but also describes dishes dressed with cheese. Vegetables dressed with browned crumbs are usually known by this term, but we would feel cheated if cheese were omitted from the famous "potatoes au gratin" when we order them.

Other well-known dishes retain their original names which sometimes refer to a place, sometimes to a chef, and sometimes to a personage who has either originated the recipe or for whom it has been named. An example of the latter is "Melba" toast, that thin oven-made toast, which takes its name from the famous singer who ordered her toast made in this fashion in hotels all over the world. Melba gave her name to Peach Melba that combination of ice cream, fresh or canned peaches, and fresh raspberry sauce. There is Chicken a la King which takes its name from a resident of New York state who showed the chefs of his favorite restaurants how to prepare chicken in this style. Perhaps this is the reason that dishes called by this name are so different at one restaurant and at another. The genuine must have a rich cream sauce, the chicken must be cut in large pieces, there must be mushrooms in it and either green peppers, pimiento or both, and there may be sherry flavoring. Another popular dish with a special name is Lobster a la Newburg, which has that very rich sauce made from cream and egg yolks, always flavored with sherry. I am afraid I cannot tell you the origin of its name. Other sea foods served with this sauce take the same name. With these dishes "a la"—"According to" is used or understood.

Many dishes take their names from the character of the sauce—Hollandaise, that combination of egg yolk, butter and lemon juice and nothing else, is occasionally translated literally as foundation of white sauce to which are added minced cooked mushrooms, and egg yolks. Sauce Espagnole, Spanish, is merely a brown sauce well seasoned. The sauce which is called by the elaborate name of Butter Maitre d'Hotel is merely melted butter flavored with lemon juice. There are any number of sauces used with poached eggs which indicate by their names the flavor of the sauce. The foundation of most of these is a white sauce. Combined with grated cheese the sauce becomes Mornay, with minced cooked onions Soubis, with spinach—Florentine.

Cook the onion and peppers in the butter until light brown. Add the bacon, cut in small pieces, and the other ingredients. Cook fifteen minutes and serve around a French omelet. The mushrooms may be omitted and capers or olives used. Bacon fat may be used instead of butter.

Beautiful! Well, what do you think? Streamlined and everything. Of course, it's the New General Electric Flatop 1937 model refrigerator. You may inspect it more closely at The Sportsman's Shop's exhibit during Homecraft Institute Week, April 7 to 9, inclusive.

Lace Goes Style High for Day Wear

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

CHOOSE for your afternoon costume a suit tailored of lace and you will have arrived at the dizziest heights of fashion. We know of no more all-important, all-significant gesture that has to do with current costume design than this of tuning lace to general daytime wear.

The grand part of the existing enthusiasm for lace in the daytime is that it is revealing as it never revealed before the practical wearability for all hours and the assured adaptability of this feminine-beloved medium. Then, too, such wide use of lace as is now manifest, brings much anew of romance and loveliness into the afternoon hours of fashion.

Just recently a pageantry of lace was staged in the ballroom of one of the noted superb hotels in Miami which presented a most entrancing scene. At this gorgeous lace ball, which seemed almost as if it were a glimpse of fairyland, the program unfolded with breathtaking beauty with a promise of style futures that assured an unprecedented vogue for lace. Notwithstanding the lure of ravishing evening creations of shimmering filmy lace or of the very new printed laces or of crisp starched lace silhouettes, or of lace in the very new "pretty" colors (cyclamen pink, thistle, azure blue and such), not forgetting smart black or white, the big message comes to us of the importance of daytime lace fashions, such as, for example, the suit of dark lace centered in the accompanying illustration.

This model by Victor Stiebel (London designers are certainly coming to the front this season) is of navy wool lace lined with tile red crepe. The shirt blouse is in the same tile red crepe with pleats at the front from yoke to waist. The hat is designed especially to complement the suit, being of the identical wool lace worked with felt in the same colors.

Likewise, the daytime dress tailored of lace declares its practicality as well as its flattering, prepossessing looks. The two-piece model to the left in the picture, being smartly tailored, bespeaks all that one could wish for to wear to any afternoon occasion from spectator sports to the cocktail hour. Just now it is proving highly acceptable for cruise or resort wear. It is wearable, also, under the fur coat or a new spring topcoat, if you are faring north. It has puff sleeves and high pockets on the blouse, both of which features are pet topics with young girls this season.

The suit illustrated to the right speaks in dramatic terms of the use being made of val lace edgings this season. The shops are showing daintiest of blouses thusly fashioned of val and the neckwear departments are making a big showing of ravishing collar and cuff sets, bibs, vests and the like of this type lace worked row-on-row on net foundations. In this model we see a winter resort fashion such as is to be taken seriously as a forerunner of a style-to-be when summer comes north. This stunning suit of shimmering val lace on a net background is better than words of the whole-hearted way in which designers are emphasizing lace this season.

And have you seen the new lace frocks with all-around pleated skirts? If not you have a revelation of super chic and charm awaiting you. There is a fabric type of lace suggesting eyelid embroidery that yields most graciously to this treatment. Printed laces are immensely important.

Do Not Put Water Into Burned Food

Do not put any water into anything that has been burnt because that will immediately carry the burnt taste into all of your food in the pot. The fact that the food has become burnt is proof that no liquid is there and if no liquid is there then there is no way for the burnt taste to be carried into the food. For example, in the case of applesauce burnings, if you carefully remove the top part and do not disturb the burnt part you will find that the top part is free of any burnt flavor. If potatoes burn while being boiled, take them off the stove and remove the burnt outside portion. Then put the unburnt potatoes into a fresh pot of boiling water with no salt. The salt in the water that boiled away will be left in the potatoes and will be extracted by the fresh boiling water.

6 FEET TALL, STILL GROWS

Pennsylvania Lad, 16,
Admits Ice Cream
His Favorite

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa. (UP) — Sixteen years old, 6 feet 8½ inches tall and still growing—that is William Percy, Connelleville High School freshman.

Eating is his favorite pastime, he says. For breakfast he eats one or two grapefruit, two or three cereal biscuits and drinks a quart of milk. Lunch, he says, usually consists of "whatever is in the house."

Then comes dinner — his "big meal." Usually he eats two steaks, a quantity of fruit, a plate full of lettuce, a loaf and a half of bread and whatever side dishes happen to be available.

"But ice cream is my favorite food," says William. "I eat it by the quart. I just had 11 hot dogs for lunch, but I wasn't very hungry."

He can pick up the front end of an automobile or a billiard table and can easily hoist a typewriter with one hand.

His 235 pounds rest on size 23 shoes, which cost $50 a pair. Half-soiling the shoes costs $2.50.

He wears a size 17½ shirt with an extra long sleeve. His waist measures 30 inches and his chest 45.

With arms outstretched, he measures 86 inches from fingertip to fingertip.

As to his prospects, William says, "I'm just the baby of the family. I've got an uncle who is 7 feet tall. He's full grown."

TAFFETA WITH NET

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Net enters into many phases of the mode this season, not the least important of which is its use for daytime dresses and for tailored themes, in contrast to its sprightly bouffancy for full-skirted party frocks. The very good-looking tailored afternoon dress here shown is of black net of bengberg yarn banded with black taffeta. You'll find this gown a friend indeed all spring and all summer. Just now it is ideal to wear under your coat. Top with a gay little chapeau and you will be ready to go anywhere and any pointments may call.

Russian Dressing Colors Rich Pink

When you make Russian dressing, add just enough chili sauce to one cup of mayonnaise to make it a rich pink. You'll also want A-1 sauce, pickles chopped fine, and olives, pimiento and green pepper, all well chopped. The portions in addition to the mayonnaise and chili sauce: ½ teaspoon of A-1 sauce and a tablespoon of the other ingredients.

COLD COOKERY INNOVATION

Bert Frey, local refrigerator dealer is featuring the latest electric refrigerator innovation—the Freez'r Shelf. A large, flat surface that resembles a stove top, but freezes instead of cooking, hence refrigeration's newly coined name "cold cookery."

Boiling Water Helps In Skinning Peaches

To remove skin from peaches and tomatoes easily place the peach in a spoon and lower it into fast boiling water for a few seconds. Skin will then easily peel off, without the fresh taste of the peach being affected.

Tomato skins can be removed in two ways: Place tomato in small bowl and pour boiling water over it. Take out and peel, removing stem mark, then chill. Or, insert a fork where the stem has been removed, and slowly turn the tomato over open flame, then place under running cold water and the skin will quickly remove and tomato still be cold.

Hand-Knit Goods Suited for Day or Night Wear

Expert workmanship has now made it possible for women to wear hand-knit clothes for every hour of the day or night. Knitted clothes being shown in Paris come in a variety of weaves and threads. Hand-knitted coats made of warm, heavy woolen threads are used for winter sports while lacy weaves of silk threads make cobwebby evening gowns. Some of the clothes are knitted directly on the needles to follow a certain pattern, but the greater part of the materials are knitted in great lengths so that the material can be cut, tailored and fitted more exactly to the styles of the day.

HOT SAUCES ARE EASY TO MIX UP

Use Proper Recipes and Follow Them Strictly.

By EDITH M. BARBER.

ONE of the most popular of the fine hot sauces with almost every one is the well-known Hollandaise. It is one of the easiest sauces to make if the proper recipe is followed. Too often, however, it is made unsuccessfully, although more pains than are necessary are taken in its production. Many recipes for Hollandaise call for washing the butter. Contrary to general opinion, this has no effect on the texture of the sauce. These directions originally were put into American recipes for this French sauce in the interest of flavor. Unsalted butter is commonly used in Europe and produces a sauce with a delicate bland flavor. In this country, however, a little salt in the sauce is generally liked. Why take salt out and then put it back?

The egg yolks, lemon juice and half the butter should be put into a small saucepan, which should be held over hot water while the butter is melting and the sauce thickening and while you stir vigorously. The rest of the butter should then be stirred in and the sauce beaten until it again thickens. Warning! Do not use a double boiler for this sauce unless you are very careful not to allow the water to boil in the lower part. Warning number two! When the sauce has thickened, set it aside if you are not ready to use it at once, and reheat it, stirring constantly, just before serving.

There are many variations of this type of sauce. You will find them under various names in different cook books. Most authorities agree that tarragon vinegar, in which herbs have been cooked, is used instead of lemon juice for Bearnaise. For a Mousseline sauce, heavy cream is beaten into Hollandaise. For a Trianon, sherry, instead of all or part of the lemon juice, is used.

A very delicate sauce, not unlike a Hollandaise, is made by combining egg yolks, sour cream and tarragon vinegar. This sauce may be cooked in a small double boiler until it thickens after a vigorous beating. For the lack of a better name I call this special sauce. It may be used with fish or vegetables.

The boiled salad dressings which may be served hot or cold do not belong exactly in any classification. They are thickened with a little flour but also demand egg yolks. The recipe for Bavarian sauce which I obtained in Germany is suitable to be used as a sauce for fish or veal or as a dressing for greens, over which it should be poured while it is hot.

Hollandaise Sauce.

½ cup butter
2 egg yolks
1 tablespoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon salt
Few grains cayenne

Divide the butter into two pieces, put one piece in a saucepan with the yolks of eggs and lemon juice, place the saucepan in a larger one containing hot water, stir constantly until the butter is melted, then add the second piece of butter and stir until it thickens. Remove from the fire, season with salt and cayenne and serve at once. If the mixture curdles from overcooking add two tablespoons of heavy cream and beat well.

Bearnaise Sauce.

Make foundation recipe for Hollandaise sauce, but substitute tarragon vinegar for lemon juice and add two teaspoons chopped parsley just before serving.

Mousseline Sauce.

Make foundation recipe for Hollandaise sauce and beat in gradually one-half cup heavy cream.

Special Sauce.

2 egg yolks
¼ cup sour cream
1 tablespoon tarragon vinegar
Salt
Paprika
Beat egg yolks slightly; add other ingredients and stir over hot water until sauce begins to thicken. This sauce is delicious with cauliflower, asparagus, broccoli or with fish.

Mint Sauce.

½ cup vinegar
1 tablespoon sugar
½ cup chopped mint leaves
Heat vinegar, remove from the fire, add the sugar and stir until dissolved. Add the mint leaves and stand in a warm place for one hour. More sugar may be used.

Maitre d'Hotel Butter.

¼ cup butter
1 tablespoon minced parsley
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Cream butter and add parsley and lemon juice and beat well. Serve with broiled meats or fish.

German Dressing.

2 strips bacon
1 tablespoon flour
2 egg yolks
¼ cup water
¼ cup vinegar
Pepper, salt, paprika
Cut bacon in small pieces, fry lightly and remove from fire. Add flour and blend well with bacon fat. Stir in beaten egg yolks, add water and vinegar and stir over a low fire a few minutes until smooth. Season to taste with pepper, salt, and paprika.

BLACK CHERRIES ARE SUGGESTED FOR "REAL" PIE

She may have been able to bake a cherry pie "quick as a cat can wink its eye" but was it a black cherry cream pie? Here is a recipe for a pie that will melt in your mouth:

Bake pastry shell empty.
1 pound black oxheart cherries, 1 cup granulated sugar, 1 cup cold water, 2 tablespoons cornstarch dissolved in ¼ cup of cold water.

Boil cherries, sugar and water until cherries begin to get soft, about 10 to 12 minutes. Then strain the juice off and put the cherries in a bowl, return the juice to saucepan, add the cornstarch dissolved in ¼ cup of cold water. Stir and bring to boiling point. Allow to simmer slowly while you break the cherries into halves and remove the stones. Place the halved and pitted cherries in another bowl and pour the hot syrup over them. Stir and cool, then chill in refrigerator. Whip ½ pint of cream and do not put the pie together until the moment of serving, then fill the pastry shell with the whipped cream and over the shipped cream spread the ice cold cherries. This makes an exceptionally delicious pie.

If it is not possible to obtain black cherries, then the white cherries can be used but they'll not have the same flavor nor the rich appearance of the black cherries.

NORGE RANGE KITCHEN-MATE

Addition To Electric Kitchen Aids Makes Bow At School

The good name of Norge is known far and wide, and they cannot afford to put that name on any product that is not worthy, or would hurt it, declares H. E. Dillinger.

So, it was only after thorough and careful tests, both in field and laboratory, that they brought out an electric range two years ago, and it has proven a worthy kitchen mate for the Norge refrigerator.

Now, Dillinger's, the local Norge dealers, have brought it to Placerville, and it takes its first bow here at the cooking school. Jane Barton is going to cook an oven dinner on it during the second day, and everyone gets a chance to guess how little it costs for electric current, the one guessing the nearest getting a handsome prize. Full instruction for the contest will be given on Wednesday, April 7, the first day of Institute. The prize is to be awarded on Friday.

The Norge range is convenient, too, with its automatic clock and all, it does practically everything but mix the ingredients.

"And this range is handsome as well as good. Of course, beauty is only skin deep, but when it costs no more, why not have a nice looking range of which you will always feel proud, rather than just an ordinary one, for which you will always be just a wee bit apologetic," said Mr. Dillinger.

Potatoes Dandy For "De-Salting" Soups

If by accident you happen to make a soup or stew too salty, drop into it some raw potatoes and boil for 10 or 15 minutes. The potatoes will extract some of the salt. The number of potatoes to be used will depend upon how salty the soup or stew is. The potatoes will not absorb any liquid but only extract the salt. This tip gives perfect results. The potatoes can be used, if desired, with the stew or kept for frying.

DOES "JUNIOR" MAKE A NOISE EATING SOUP?

If the children think it's fun to make noise drinking soup, why not make it more fun not to make a noise? The easiest way to teach children good table manners is to make a game of it—let them compete with each other to see which one can go through the meal without making a mistake. Give an extra helping of dessert to the one who wins, or let him stay up 15 minutes later that night.

Have a knife and fork drill now and then, like fire drill at school. Make a ceremony of it, with regular practices between meals. Let the children cut knives and forks and spoons out of cardboard, and teach them how to set their own little table in the nursery. As a reward, let them have a "dinner" for their friends, with real silver, when they learn to do it properly. Children will always do what they like to do—you can disguise many a hard lesson with a sugar coating of fun!

When children's food is attractively served, at a table set with lovely china and silverware, good manners become a natural part of their background. Children begin early to appreciate nice things, and in the right surroundings, they soon learn to take pride in the table and their manners, too. Good manners are a definite social asset, a habit your children will thank you for when they grow up. A little guidance from you right now, while they're young, and it's theirs for life.

French Dressing Can Be Made Very Quickly

To make a quick French dressing take one teaspoon of salt, another of good paprika, a cup of olive oil and three-fourths cup of malt vinegar.

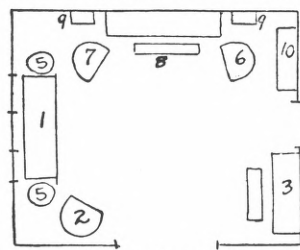

Put all ingredients into a pint Mason jar with rubber and cap. Screw cap down tight, shake the ingredients vigorously and they will combine in a thick dressing that will delight your family and friends. Keeps in refrigerator indefinitely. Shake well before using and if the oil has become solid, run warm water over the jar then shake and the dressing will be thick as heavy cream. Some prefer to add a little pepper and sugar to taste.

Household Hints

By BETTY WELLS

IT ALL started with a pair of blue Wedgewood vases. They were wedding gifts—heavenly ones—and the bride said, "Let's have our living room in blue!" Many a beautiful room starts, just that way. Maybe the nucleus will be a Ming vase or a good Hitchcock chair or a family sampler, as the case may be. This particular bride has her blue living room now and everyone is happy, including those who visit her there.

The walls of the rather large, square room are oyster white and the floor is covered with a Chinese rug in beige with blue figures. A sofa (1) and an easy chair (2) form the main furniture group and go beneath three windows with occasional tables (5) conveniently by. The sofa is covered in blue frieze and the chair in sand colored frieze. A new type spinet piano (3) stands in an opposite wall with the secretary (10) near. Two more easy chairs (6 and 7) stand in front of the fireplace—one is in dulled apricot velvet, the other is old gold. A long low table (8) stands in front of the fireplace and two small

It all started with a pair of blue Wedgewood vases.

The three windows together are treated as one with straight window curtains of fine net and to-the-floor draperies finished at the top with a curving swag drapery. The draperies are of English chintz with a dark blue ground and a mellowed floral design.

A pair of crystal lamps, a marine painting over the fireplace, accessories in brass, two Currier and Ives prints in blond wood frames—and the room is complete.

Well, no, it isn't complete. For these are very newly-weds and their idea has been to create as happy and home-like a living room as they can afford now, but it will be an ever-growing, ever-changing room.

The Wedgewood vases? Oh, they stand on the mantel proud as peacocks!

A "Fixing Fold."

Lights out. Fuse blown. Hey, where's a candle? Got any fuses? Oh, heavens! run over to the Browns and see if they have any.

It is just such crises as these that can make a pleasant home into rather a hectic one. We remember moments of sheer chaos resulting from blown fuses in the middle of a party. Other small but important details in the gentle art of keeping a home often can cause momentary headaches that seem pretty silly since a little planning might avert them.

We are strongly in favor of a "fixing fold" somewhere in the house. We have in mind a simple compact cabinet, preferably on the first floor, with such things as extra fuses, an electric torch, a screw driver and an assortment of nails and screws all ready to hand. You might even find space for it on the wall of the kitchen and we're certain that you could find the right size cabinet for such a purpose in the array of steel ones that most stores have now.

This cabinet would be inviolate—hands off except for emergencies. You might include strong twines and furniture glue in your list of "fixings"—thumb tacks, mending tape, good sharp scissors (woe unto little Margaret if caught using them for paper dolls).

We have a hunch that most husbands who hate to work around the house are that way mainly because they never can find any tools. Flash a "fixing fold" on your own best half when he comes home this Saturday afternoon before you bring up that mile long list of little "please-fix-thises". First thing you know he'll be looking for something to tear up and rebuild! And he'll end up with a great deal more leisure time if the materials for mending and repairing household necessities are easy to find and ready to use.

And one more addition—a group of duplicate keys for all important doors in the house can be kept in this closet to smooth life's way.

In the photo shown above are two outstanding subjects, the California Homemaker and the New Norge rollator Refrigerator. You may see them both at the Homemaker Institute, which opens at the Shakespeare Clubhouse tomorrow for three days; the first in the person of Jane Barton and the latter in the home appliance exhibit of Dillinger's, the local Norge dealer.

Green Vegetables Are Better Done This Way

We'll serve a more tender, deliciously flavored vegetable if we try this method:

Get out an enamel-ware pot. Have pot of boiling water and a kettle of boiling water ready. Into the pot of boiling water put 1 teaspoon of baking soda. Then put vegetable in. Allow to boil 2 or 3 minutes, no longer. Then strain the water off and refill the pot with boiling water from the kettle. Add salt to taste. No soda in second water. Cabbage, broccoli, cauliflower and Brussels sprouts will cook without odor and be greatly improved in flavor, digestibility, and appearance. If this tip is used, all green vegetables will be greatly improved and all will cook much quicker—string beans in 10 minutes. Just try it. Asparagus will come out crisp, fresh and sweet. Peas are distinctly improved.

RESEARCH AIDS STORE OWNERS

Specialists Now Have Duty Of Selecting Sites

Not only have scientific methods been applied to the display, storage and preservation features of grocery stores as regards physical aspects, to the details of management and operation, but also they are now applied to the fixing of the locations of stores, according to the National Association of Retail Grocers.

The placing of a grocery on a given location by impulse, instinct or casual deduction, the association continues, is a thing of the past.

Today it is the practice to precede the location of a grocery with an exhaustive survey. This takes into consideration the disposition of surrounding population, the proximity and condition of streets, the elevation of the property and the telephone situation.

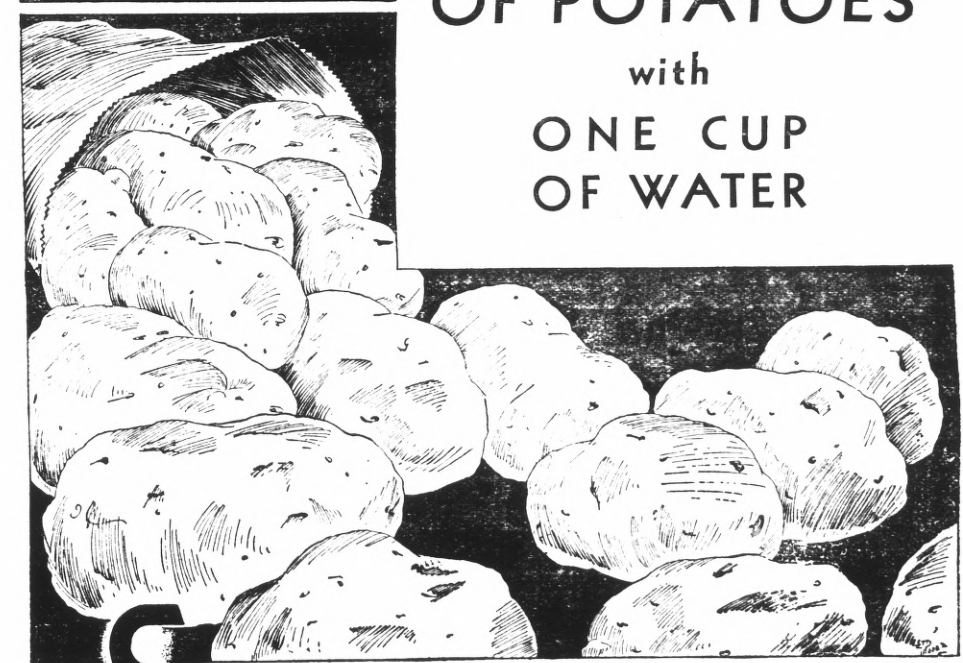

Automobiles are taken into consideration as an important factor and accommodations for parking cars and space for waiting cars are problems which must be given consideration.

The vital importance of the location has become such that specialists have been developed in the survey field. The efficient grocer, in launching his new business venture, first calls in the survey specialist.

Household Hints

By BETTY WELLS

JEAN is in her first year of high school and feels terribly grown-up. Especially since her father and mother recently have done over her bedroom in recognition of her position as the young lady of the family now that Helen's married.

The new furniture is a walnut and very nice. Of course, Jean has been in a breathless state deciding on the wall paper and the chintzes and selecting new lamps. The room finished up not exactly according to her mother's notions, but Jean thinks it's absolutely perfect, which is all that really counts.

The wall paper is pink with a tiny white flower in it and the curtains are cream net with seven inch ruffles. The draperies are lavender rayon taffeta with more wide ruffles, but pleated this time like an old-time taffeta petticoat flounce. The bed-spread is a flowered chintz on a cream ground with lovely very Frenchy bouquets for the design. It is finished with pleated taffeta ruffles to match the draperies. There is a chair in this same chintz, and the rug is a tranquil light gray.

Naturally, Jean feels her importance in a room like this! And her responsibilities too. At first her mother thought that it was much too fussy for a girl Jean's age, but even she's getting sold on the idea now that she's seen how much pride and pains Jean takes with the room. She's gotten as neat as a pin and more careful of those taffeta ruffles than of her best party dress. If a room can teach those qualities to a fourteen year old, it's a success, decoratively speaking.

The Living Room.

May Lee is throwing prudence to the winds and doing over her living room just the way she'd like to have it, not the way that might seem safest and sanest. In the end hers will probably be the color scheme that all the ladies in town will be dying to copy.

First—Walls of walnut veneer which looks like panelling but does cost so much because it's very thin. (There are also some wall papers that look so much like real wood panelling that the smartest interior decorators are using them.) Then a sofa in a very scintillating shade of blue-jay blue. Cretonnes for several of the other chairs in an English floral design on a warm creamy ground... an odd chair in coral... Cream celanese curtains tied back with heavy cream cords and made with pinch pleated tops... her old cream ground Oriental rug... lamps with brass bases and cream shades... accessories with brass... picture frames in gold leaf... andirons and fire things in coral... some pieces of pottery in coral... a pair of porcelain vases and a tea set in blue-jay blue.

It's a perfectly lovely room which started us to thinking about dark walls. We wouldn't advise them in some places, in others we would.

Hints Are Given On Measuring Of Butter

When a recipe calls for half a cup of butter it means solid butter. When melted butter is to be used, the recipe says so much melted butter.

To measure solid butter, use a measuring cup. If the recipe calls for 1/2 cup butter, fill the measuring cup to the three-fourths mark with cold water, then put your butter into the water until the water rises to the top of the cup. Pour out the water and you have 1/2 cup of butter.

1/2 pound butter equals 1/2 cup.

1/2 pound butter equals 8 tablespoons.

If a piece of waxed paper is placed over the knife you can cut butter in nice clean-cut squares for the dinner table.

ROMAN EMPIRE ONCE
BOUGHT AT AUCTION

BOSTON.—How the Roman empire was once sold at auction, for $10,000,000 is revealed in a bulletin made public here by the research department of the American Fruit and Produce Auction Association.

"History records that Didius Julianus, a wealthy Roman senator, made himself emperor by bidding in the Roman empire at public auction in 193, A. D., the bulletin sets forth. "By offering 6,250 drachmas, or $1,000 apiece to the 10,000 members of the Praetorian Guard—a total of $10,000,000—he succeeded to the throne over Sulpicianus, the next highest bidder.

"Ancient records of auctions date even further back than this historic episode. Herodotus describes auctions as methods of sale among the Babylonians in early times.

"In modern days the auction method of selling has been highly developed in the marketing of essential commodities. In England during the reign of William III, the auction system of selling was prescribed for merchandise imported by the famous East India Tea Company.

"In the United States for more than a century, fruit and vegetables for big city consumption have been sold by auction. So successful has this system proved in meeting growers' and consumers' needs that today transactions involving hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of fruit and produce are handled every year by auction markets in ten leading American cities."

Big City Fruit Demand

Supplied by Auctions

DETROIT, Mich.—More than 80 per cent of the citrus fruit and 54 per cent of the deciduous fruit marketed in ten leading cities of the United States annually is sold through auctions, according to figures compiled by the American Fruit and Produce Auction Association.

"Because of the large volume of fruit and produce sold by this method," says a bulletin issued by the association "the auction markets are 'barometers' which indicate the general market price which various commodities bring."

Marked increase in the volume of fruits and vegetables sold by auction in the past ten years, the bulletin says has helped toward improved methods of distribution.

GUARANTEED AS ADVERTISED IN GOOD HOUSEKEEPING

Everybody in town will be dying to copy May Lee's new decorating color scheme.

Naturally they do make a room less bright and sunny looking. But in the average house where there are plenty of other rooms to be bright and sunny, it's interesting to have one that has the contrasting effect of tranquility and repose and that aloofness you feel as you step out of a glare into a serene shadowy glen or into a quiet library at dusk. That same mood can be achieved in a room with dark walls. But in order to keep it from seeming sombre and depressing, be sure to have other things in the room of lighter tone.

Proper Use of Colors

In decorating, it is essential to know that there are colors that "advance" and those that "recede." Yellow, red and orange are warm and are classed as advancing colors—they will make a room appear smaller. Blue, green and gray are cool and receding and will add to the apparent size of a room.
